Booby-Trap Car Explosion Kills 8 In Algiers

50 Injured At Dockside Hiring Office

Thunderous Blast Sets Off Panic Among Moslems

ALGIERS (AP)—A booby-trapped car exploded in a crowd of 1,500 Moslems at a dockside hiring office today, killing 8 and injuring about 50.

The casualties ere among 16 Moslems killed d possibly 100 wounded in ort time in this terror-ridden ty as a result of bombings and shootings attributed to the European Secret Army Organization, which wants to prevent Algerian independence.

One of the main objectives of the secret army is to incite the Moslems to violence so that the French army would be obliged to act against them.

The thunderous blast of the booby-trapped car — the second such incident in a week—set off an angry, panic-stricken reaction from Moslem crowds.

10-FOOT CRATER

Dock workers who swarmed along the water front caught one European and cut his throat.

At the sight of the crowd of Moslems pouring out on the dock area, a traffic jam developed. Many drivers hastily abandoned their cars to seek safety.

Europeans in the port area barricaded themselves in offices.

When police reached the scene, Moslem nationalist leaders, wearing white and green armbands.

Tabloid Quote On JFK Shifts Into Spotlight

WASHINGTON (AP)—The steel price battle and business relations with the Kennedy administration, backdrop for the 1962 convention of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, have moved up to the footlights, pushed forward by a panel discussion on politics.

A tabloid paper, the World, distributed free to delegates attending the session Tuesday, helped shift the scenery. It carried this front-page quotation, attributed to President Kennedy at the height of his ire over the short-lived price boost:

"My father always told me that all businessmen were sons-of-bitches but I never believed it till now."

The White House has denied the accuracy of the quotation and the President himself was conciliatory in a speech to the chamber earlier in the week. The tabloid's contents, however, got indirectly into the panel discussion and Kennedy-business relations drew the spotlight throughout.

The consensus seemed to be that Kennedy's success in forcing a rollback of the $6-a-ton price boost may win votes for Democrats in the November congressional elections but will spur businessmen into greater political activity.

The World credited the Kennedy crack about businessmen to the New York Times which used it recently in a review of the steel price battle. The Times said it was made to close advisers at the White House.

A White House spokesman, questioned about the original Times article, has said Kennedy was not correctly quoted. He said Kennedy may have "said something about big-business men, but not all—after all, his father was a businessman."

Editor Predicts Sales Tax Bid

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A sales tax proposal to be introduced in the upcoming session of the legislature was predicted Tuesday night by Mrs. Margaret Dixon, managing editor of the Baton Rouge Morning Advocate.

Mrs. Dixon, a veteran politician reporter, told members of the southeast Louisiana chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, the tax proposal will be introduced as a possible solution to the state's financial crisis.

She said the financial crises in which the state now finds itself dates back to the Kennon administration, although the present administration "compounded the felony."

CHANGES MIND

Faubus To Seek Fifth Term

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Democratic Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who said last March he would quit politics, announced today that he has changed his mind and will seek an unprecedented fifth term.

Faubus decision to run for governor removed the possibility of a head-on political collision between him and Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Many political observers had never taken Faubus' retirement announcement seriously. There had been speculation, however, that he would fight Fulbright for the Senate, rather than run for governor again.

SEVERAL WEEKS

Faubus was the sixth Democratic candidate to enter the field. His most formidable opponent is former Gov. Sid McMath, who gave him his first political job.

The Democratic field is considered the strongest Faubus has ever faced. One Republican is running. He is Willis Harvey Rickets, a Fayetteville druggist. Winthrop Rockefeller, brother of New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, took himself out of the race as a Republican contender several weeks ago.

When Faubus announced his retirement he said he was worried about his health and, besides, wanted to write several books on various topics, including the riotous integration of Little Rock public schools in 1957.

He went to the Ochsner Clinic in New Orleans for a medical examination and was reassured.

"A complete medical examination has revealed that I am in good health and able with prudent effort to undergo the rigors of a campaign and two more years in office," he said today.

ORVAL FAUBUS

GOP Listens To Care Plan, Shuns Stand

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican senators listened to an explanation of various health care plans for the aged today but came to no party stand on the politically explosive issue.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, chairman of the conference of all GOP senators, described it as an educational session at which no effort was made to get a consensus of views.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois the party floor leader, had said in advance of the session that he hoped some consensus could be reached on a party position.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, who did most of the explaining at the closed meeting, told newsmen afterward that he was encouraged at prospects of some Republican support for his health care proposal.

Javits noted that he sponsored bills in 1960 and 1961 which were based on financing out of the general Treasury revenues.

PRIVATE PLAN

But he said he came to the conclusion this year that the only health care legislation which could pass Congress would have to be based on increased taxes.

Therefore, he said, he modified his earlier measure to include such financing, but retained a proposal that beneficiary could take the federal aid and put it into a private insurance plan. That would be an alternative to government-administered plans.

President Kennedy's proposal does not contain the private insurance provision.

Javits said the feature was indispensable if Republican support were to be obtained. And he insisted, as he has before, that no legislation can pass which does not win several GOP votes.

NEW COMMITTEE

Rep. John Plans Watch-Dog Bill

Rep. Mike John Jr. of Monroe today disclosed plans for a proposal to create a legislative committee empowered to investigate any charges of wrong - doing in state government.

The concurrent resolution has been pre - filed for the regular session that opens May 14th.

"I think I'll have support for it," John said.

The resolution would create the Joint Legislative Committee on Legislative Oversight, composed of five lawmakers with authority to investigate charges covering the following fields:

Mismanagement, fraud, misconduct, abuse of authority, or misuse, misinterpretation or misapplication of public funds and-or of laws or rules or regulations adopted for the administration of any board, commission, department, or agency of the state government.

The committee also would have authority to investigate any officer or employe of the state government.

"I want to establish a study committee responsible to the legislature, which is responsible to the people, for honest and efficient government," John said.

Per diem — $50 per day for committeemen while they are actually rendering service for the committee — would be paid out of the operating fund for the House of Representatives.

The committee would be composed of three House members and two senators, but John said he imagined amendments would be offered to increase the size of the committee.

Committeemen would have the

Gary Leads In Oklahoma; Folsom Trails

Former Governor Of Alabama Running 3rd In Primary

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Former Gov. Raymond Gary held the lead today in Oklahoma's Democratic gubernatorial primary. Another former governor seeking to return to public life—James E. Folsom—was trailing in Alabama.

In Tuesday's primary election Gary easily made it into the May 22 runoff in his bid to be Oklahoma's first two-term governor. The name of his Democratic opponent three weeks hence was still a question mark. Four candidates were grouped close together, but the choice appeared to be W. P. Bill Atkinson. The rest of the field of 12 was far behind.

In Alabama two less widely known candidates, whose main campaign difference was over how best to maintain racial segregation in that state, were locked in a see-saw race well ahead of Folsom who was bidding for an unprecedented third term.

Democratic voters in both states nominated incumbent U.S. senators for new terms. Sen. Mike Monroney handily won nomination for a third term in Oklahoma. Sen. Lister Hill beat two opponents to win the nod for a seventh term in Alabama.

With two thirds of Alabama's 3,600 precincts counted, former state Judge George A. Wallace, runnerup four years ago, had 134,885 votes and young state Sen. Ryan deGraffenried had 119,218. Folsom had tallied 100,598 followed by state Atty. Gen. MacDonald Gallion with 56,633 and three other candidates were far behind.

The two leaders will battle it out in Alabama's May 29 runoff.

In Oklahoma, with more than half the state's 3,100 precincts

Gremillion Says $80-Million Estimate Wrong

BATON ROUGE (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion today denounced a published report that Louisiana could only expect up to $80 million from an escrow fund of oil revenues when its coastal boundary dispute with the federal government is settled.

The report, quoting sources in Washington, said Louisiana would receive a minimum of 4 per cent of the escrow funds if current sketches of the state's offshore holdings are accepted.

The escrow fund now totals $459 million of royalties from production and bonuses paid by oil companies for leases off the Louisiana coast.

"I would not have the audacity to even think of an agreement with such a small amount," Gremillion said, referring to the published report. "I couldn't even accept this in good conscience, much less recommend it to the governor and the legislature."

The report said the state could expect $11.5 million in from areas along the coast where the state and federal government agree upon the coastal boundary, and up to $69 million from areas where the state and federal government are still in disagreement.

Gremillion said the report was "utterly ridiculous. There is definitely no agreement either proposed or signed." He said the report was probably issued by "one of those federal career men who have been against us all along."

One Killed On Lisbon May Day

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—Police patrolled the streets of Portugal's two biggest cities today as the cleanup began after May Day clashes in which at least one man was killed and 50 persons were injured.

Club-swinging police and troops crushed the outbursts in Lisbon and Oporto Tuesday and arrested scores of antigovernment demonstrators. Scattered violence continued through the night.

An official of a first aid post near the scene of Lisbon's fighting said one demonstrator was brought in dead from a gunshot wound in the head. Police said at least 42 other persons, including two policemen, were hospitalized with injuries.

Army Boss Stahr Accepts College Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr. has resigned, effective June 30, to accept the presidency of Indiana University.

President Kennedy accepted Stahr's resignation today "with regret and reluctance."

Stahr takes over the university office July 1, succeeding Dr. Herman B. Wells, who has been president for 25 years.

The shift had been announced in advance of the word from the White House by William Hickman, president of the university board of trustees.

An exchange of letters between Stahr and President Kennedy was made public by the White House.

Stahr recalled in his letter, dated Tuesday, that he left the presidency of West Virginia University to become Army secretary "only because I shared your conviction about the need for our country to develop a much stronger Army in a time of prolonged and serious external threat to the basic values of peace, freedom and human dignity."

Stahr added:

JOB WELL DONE

"The opportunity to lead one of America's great universities comes to few men even once in a lifetime. Yet, even now that I have been invited to lead one of the greatest, I would be reluctant to ask you to release me after a year and a half as your Army secretary were it not that the Army has moved during that period to a distinctly higher plateau and our basic objectives for it have now been clearly mapped and moved far along the road to accomplishment."

Kennedy's reply, dated today, said Stahr's "personal dedication to the task, and to the Army, has been an inspiration to the men and women of the United States Army."

"You can take up your new and important post at Indiana University with great satisfaction of a job well done, and a service truly performed to the government and the people of our country," Kennedy wrote.

Kennedy called Stahr's conduct

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Residents of Baker were told Tuesday there was no need for the sudden rush of typhoid shots thought needed after flooding conditions Saturday.

Dr. David Brown, director of the city-parish health unit for East Baton Rouge Parish, said "drinking water in Baker is perfectly safe and the few wells which might have become contaminated have been chlorinated."

About 2,200 persons have been innoculated. Only about 40 acres out of a total of about 3,700 acres were flooded.

"We think there are a lot of unnecessary sore arms in our town," said Dr. Brown.

MISSISSIPPI RULING

9 Segregation Laws Illegal

BILOXI, Miss. (AP)—U.S. District Judge Sidney C. Mize today declared nine Mississippi segregation statutes unconstitutional and upheld the right of three Negroes to unsegregated transportation service.

Mize ruled the suit by the Negroes was not a proper class action and that no relief may be granted to any other than that to which the plaintiffs are personally entitled.

The Negroes sought relief for themselves and other Negroes as a class action, but Mize ruled the plaintiffs failed to prove it was a class action.

The nine segregation laws ruled unconstitutional violated the 14th amendment to the U.S. Constitution, Mize said.

The laws pertained to separate but equal accommodations for persons of white and Negro races traveling by common carriers.

The suit was brought by Samuel Bailey, Joseph Broadwater and Burnett L. Jacobs, Negroes of Jackson against state Atty. Gen. Joe T. Patterson, the city of Jackson, its mayor and commissioners and chief of police, Jackson Municipal Airport Authority, bus and railroad companies.

The ruling did not disturb three

House Takes Up Revolutionary Satellite Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today takes up a bill that promises to revolutionize world communications.

It would set up a new kind of semiprivate corporation to control a global network of space satellite relay stations, eventually capable of instantly flashing telegraph and voice messages and even television pictures anywhere around the earth.

SUPPORT ASSURED

The future potential of this startling concept may be gauged by the amount of controversy the bill already has generated. A long debate was scheduled, and the House may not complete consideration of the bill today.

Eventual passage does not seem in doubt, however. Bipartisan support was assured the measure Tuesday when the House Republican Policy Committee issued a statement in favor of the bill as "the appropriate vehicle to speed the development of this system."

Rep. William Fitts Ryan, D-N.Y., the House's lone declared advocate of government ownership of the satellite corporation, says the bill represents a give-away to private communications companies of research paid for by millions of taxpayer dollars.

Ryan called a strategy meeting late Tuesday to map plans to fight the bill on the floor. But he frankly expects to get little support for his view. Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., has carried on a similar fight in Senate hearings.

Ryan said only a handful of congressmen showed up at his meeting, but that he intends, nevertheless, to try to win support for his substitute bill that embodies the principle of government ownership.

SOMEBODY ALWAYS PAYS

Group Debunks The Word 'Free'

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The New Jersey Taxpayers Association (NJTA) comes up today with its annual report debunking the idea that federal aid to states and local communities is a kind of free lunch that doesn't cost anything.

Free lunch is a saloon term. Free lunch was an institution in the bad old days before prohibition sought to impose itself on the drinking classes. But free lunch did not return with repeal. In some states it is specifically forbidden by the liquor laws.

Any old time saloon keeper could have told you, however, that free lunch was never free, whether it was soggy cheese and crackers in some dump or a noble spread of meat or fowl with appropriate trimmings in the saloons frequented by well-heeled fancy Dans. Of course the customers paid for the food in their liquor tabs. Else the owner of the store would not have set it out.

The beer drinker who happily thought the lunch was free was, of course, a sucker. But no more a sucker than are millions of citizens who bleed the U. S. Treasury for home town or home state projects in the belief that it doesn't cost them anything.

Not all citizens are such suckers, however, because of the 50 states there are 36 that are getting more out of the federal treasury than they pay in. Not much more, in some cases, and a great deal more in others.

The concern of the New Jersey Taxpayers Association is with those states that are, in fact, suckers for the something-for-nothing idea that the politicans peddle with respect to federal aid to states and local communities.

Lola Perkins Held In Jail At St. Louis

Charity Scheme Figures Into Providence Case

ST. LOUIS (Special) — The arrest of a Negro woman involved in a $365,000 swindle of a Lake Providence land owner was revealed Wednesday.

The arrest was made Tuesday night. The woman was identified as Lola Perkins, 56, whose husband, Rev. Matthew Perkins, 59, was arrested April 23 and is being held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

His wife also will be held on $10,000 bond, according to St. Louis Circuit Attorney Daniel P. Reardon Jr.

The man and his wife have been charged in warrants with theft in the alleged swindle of Robert Amacker, wealthy member of a Lake Providence family.

An inquiry began at the request of attorneys for a land firm of which Amacker was an officer.

It is alleged that the Perkins obtained more than $375,000 from Amacker over four years.

The Perkins are leaders of a mysterious organization known as the United Rock of Charity.

A petition filed in U. S. District court here says that female members call themselves "plucks" and male members are identified as "rocks."

Perkins was identified as the "supreme master" and his wife as the "supreme ruler."

An East St. Louis, Ill., church group was awarded damages of $11,767 April 6 against the two Negroes. The group said they were duped out of $6,767 by the United Rock of Charity.

According to Reardon, the United Rock of Charity also was the basis of an alleged scheme in which Amacker advanced more than $365,000 to the Perkins.

The organization was established as a "trust fund" in a purported will of the late Magnolia J. Ward of St. Louis. Perkins was listed as the adopted son of the woman.

Reardon said the purported will was the brainchild of the Perkins woman and that the Ward estate was never more than $1,000.

Six Jobless Negroes Arrive; 2 Praise Council

NEW YORK (UPI) — Six broke, jobless Negroes arrived here by bus today from New Orleans at the expense of the segregationist White Citizens' Council and found jobs awaiting them.

The six said they were happy to get the chance to come North. One of them, Roy Hamilton, 23, said he would like to strangle the members of the White Citizens' Council "one by one."

Another of the group, Leon Horne, 25, was a former Freedom Rider who served a 40-day jail term in Jackson, Miss., for his integrationist activities. He said he had taken advantage of the council and its head, George Singelmann, to get a return ride North.

"This is one way of getting even," he said.

JOBS FOR SIX

Dr. Edward Lewis, executive director of the Urban League, greeted the shivering, shirt - sleeved Negroes with the news that a Baltimore, Md., contractor has offered jobs for all six. Lewis said a service union also had informed him it had jobs available.

The men were met by agents of the Travelers Aid Society and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The Negroes said they did not come here to join the welfare rolls, although one had only 45 cents in his pocket and another was flat broke.

Hamilton, who claimed he was arrested without cause five times in New Orleans and robbed of $5 of Army affairs an outstanding example of good management and said his policies of recognition of young talent, of examination and adoption of new doctrines and techniques, and emphasis on vigorous leadership for the Army "marks your tenure as Army secretary."

The White House did not name a successor but attention focuses on Stephen Ailes, 50, now undersecretary of the Army.

Ailes, a Washington lawyer, has been handling many of the Army's most ticklish problems while Stahr has been traveling in the United States and overseas.

Ailes was the man who supervised the preparation of the controversial plan to reorganize the Army's National Guard and Reserve forces.

He recently returned from a survey trip to Europe and made recommendations which were influential in lifting the ban on travel of military dependents to Europe.

Ailes, a native of Rome, held posts under the Truman administration and took part in work leading to the original aid program in Greece and Turkey. He has been undersecretary since February 1961.

The Republican nominee in Alabama, where Democratic nomination is equivalent to election, has not been named yet, but Julian Eliot of Montgomery, who ran for the Senate in 1960, has announced his candidacy.

The Democratic nominee in Oklahoma could face a tough challenge from Henry Bellmon, wheat farmer and former state Republican chairman who easily won nomination against token opposition. He is expected to make a strong bid to be Oklahoma's first Republican governor.

All nine Alabama Democratic congressmen apparently made it into the May 29 runoff in which the one who gets the lowest number of votes in a statewide race will be retired. The sudden death election results from Alabama's loss of one representative based on the 1960 census.

The legislature did not redistrict the state, preferring to let the nine incumbents run in their districts, then face off in the statewide race. Six of the congressmen had no opposition Tuesday. Three others won their races.

Rep. Frank Boykin of Mobile led Pierre Pelham of Mobile in the 1st District while Rep. George Grant and Rep. George Huddleston walloped their Democratic foes.

The only incumbent congressman in Oklahoma with a primary fight, Rep. Victor Wickersham of Mangum, led three foes in his bid for a second term but not enough to avoid a runoff. His probable opponent is state Rep. Jim Bullard. Rep. Carl Albert, the House majority leader, has no primary or Republican opposition.

In the Oklahoma gubernatorial primary campaign Gary, an independent oil company operator from Madill, near the Texas border, had opposed proposals to reapportion the state legislature according to the state constitution. This would have given voters in urban areas a larger voice in the rurally dominated legislature.

Also an issue was state finances. Gary, who opposed any tax increase when he was governor from 1955 to 1959, adopted that position again, but stumped for a $210-million highway bond issue. Atkinson favored a 1 cent increase in the 2-cent sales tax.

In Alabama all seven candidates pledged to fight for racial segregation in that state. Wallace promised to defy any federal court integration order. He denounced the federal courts as lousy.

The ruling also said the plaintiffs are not now entitled to any injunctive relief.

"It is discretionary with the court," the ruling said, "as to whether it will enjoin enforcement of an unconstitutional statute and it will not do so in the absence of a strong showing that the plaintiffs will suffer immediate and irreparable injury in the absence of injunctive relief."

Mize pointed out there had been no arrests or prosecution under the segregation statutes attacked in the case for many years and that the statutes had not been enforced.

Businessmen Warned Against Aligning With Extremists

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—A panel of speakers cautioned today that businessmen who ally themselves with extremist groups in the cause of anticommunism may simply serve the purposes of the Soviet Union.

The discussion developed at the annual meeting of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce in response to written questions from the audience about the John Birch Society and similar conservative organizations.

The theme of the program was "Strengthening freedom to meet the challenge of communism."

A business consultant, Leo Cherne, executive director of the Research Institute of America, told the questioners that attempts to divide a nation into irreconcilable camps, left and right, were a carefully taught tactic of the Communist conspiracy.

"There are the radical extremes, left and right, who serve the purposes of the Soviet Union by making of this struggle a radical struggle, rather than one waged in the tradition of American freedom," Cherne said.

The Communists do not succeed unless they achieve this kind of split, in which extremists are fighting each other instead of the common enemy, Cherne said.

This is not a problem of true conservatives, Cherne went on, since "a conservative cannot find himself in an extreme position—an extremist on either the right or the left is radical."

Dr. Frank Barnett, program director of the Institute for American Strategy, Chicago, reminded the 4,000 businessman-delegates that France paid the penalty in World War II for having formed irreconcilable blocs of the right and left.

Barnett, whose privately supported organization is devoted to techniques of waging the cold war, said the French nation became so involved in internal strife that it could not devote full attention to the menace of Germany.

were on hand and working to hold excited Moslems in check.

They calmed the crowd and persuaded dock workers to return to the scene of the bombing. Forty pounds of explosive packed into the car had torn a 10-foot wide crater in the pavement and hurled jagged metal bits in all directions.

As it exploded, it ripped up a water pipe, releasing a geyser of water.

The car was torn apart and pieces were hurled dozens of yards away. The blast lifted a car parked nearby and hurled it several yards onto the top of another car. Both vehicles caught fire.

Moslems sacked two pharmacies and made off with medical supplies to treat the wounded at improvised first aid stations.

These were jammed with Moslems bringing blankets, bandages and disinfectants. Moslem doctors and nurses bent over moaning patients.

Shortly afterward, gunmen in a speeding car in the center of the city shot down a cluster of Moslems, killing four and wounding four more.

In Oran Tuesday night, secret army terrorists attacked two fortified French command posts in the heart of the city. French troops returned the fire from behind sandbagged gun emplacements, and after a 40-minute exchange the attackers withdrew and dispersed.

No casualties were reported.

In the Moslem border area of Gambetta, Europeans riding in a car opened fire on a group of Moslem women. Two women were wounded.

In Tizi Ouzou, a special court convicted 23 persons of secret army activity and sentenced them to prison terms ranging from one to four years. Two other defendants, one a 21-year-old girl, were given suspended sentences, and one other was acquitted.

John said he was not admitting that wrong - doing exists in state government, but added, "The resolution creating the committee speaks for itself."

The resolution states, "With increasing frequency various boards, commissions, departments and agencies of the state of Louisiana, and the public officials and employees charged with the responsibility for administering them, have been made the subject of criticism and charges, among others, of mismanagement, abuse, misinterpretation of legislative intent, and operation under too lax laws."

John's resolution points out that it is the duty of the legislature to "determine the validity of such charges and criticism."

The committee would be authorized to "hold hearings, subpoena witnesses, administer oaths, require the production of books and records, punish for contempt, and provide for the prosecution, in accordance with the laws of this state, of any person who refused to testify or who is guilty of false swearing or of perjury."

The Monroe lawmaker explained that the committee, after its investigations, would report to the legislature with recommendations for legislation or proper action if necessary.

The $25 fine was imposed, then suspended, on Jimmie T. Singleton, 22, of West Monroe. He had also been fined $300 and costs for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

Battle Looms Over Trade Expansion Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—A possible floor fight over President Kennedy's trade expansion program loomed today at the annual meeting of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

The specific bone of contention is the provision to help domestic firms and workers injured by import conditions.

A dissenting group of chamber members, it was reported, favors fewer instead of more federal adjustment benefits to cushion the impact of rising imports as tariffs are reduced gradually.

The chamber has endorsed all major elements of the pending legislation, including expanded presidential authority to negotiate reciprocal lowering or elimination of tariffs on road classes of goods over a five-year period.

HIGH TARIFFS

Delegates to the 50th annual convention, which ends tonight, are not expected to alter this basic position. But objections were raised to the administration's proposed adjustment benefits, it was learned, at a weekend session of the chamber's 28-member policy committee.

Repairs Slated On Water Lines

Water in the Edgewater Gardens and Delano Drive areas of Monroe will be cut off Thursday morning for approximately one hour, French L. Smith, manager of the Monroe Utilities Commission, said Wednesday.

The cut off will be in effect from 9 to 10 a.m. for repairs to the main line, Smith said.

Smith said all of the areas in the Edgewater Gardens and along Delano Drive from DeSiard street to the bayou, along with the college, will be affected.

by New Orleans police, said he thought the White Citizens' Council was trying to embarrass "one section of the country—New York—by using it."

But two of Hamilton's companions had only praise for the council. Shelva Williams, 39, said "they're great" and Earl Campbell, 31, described council members as "wonderful people."

Each had been given $5 spending money by the council prior to departure, in addition to their one-way tickets.

IN RED CAPTIVITY

GIs Bound For Nearly Month

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —Two American Army sergeants released by Communist guerrillas said the Reds kept them bound during their 22 days of captivity but fed them regularly on rice. They said they suffered no brutality.

Sgts. Francis Quinn of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and George E. Groom of St. Joseph, Mo., freed in what appeared to be a May Day gesture, looked weary from their ordeal but in good shape otherwise as they arrived in Saigon by plane Tuesday night.

Denying reports they had been led through villages as propaganda exhibits, they told interrogating officers they were held the entire 22 days atop a mountain near where they were captured April 8.

Still wearing the camouflage uniforms and berets of the Army Special Forces, they were released less than five miles from the spot outside the coastal town of Da Nang where they were ambushed with two other American soldiers and 31 Vietnamese trainees.

The other Americans, Sgt. Wayne E. Marchand of Plattsmouth, Neb., and Spec. 5 James Gabriel of Honolulu, were wounded and their bodies later found two miles from the ambush scene.

Quinn and Groom said they had carried their wounded comrades for more than a mile until the Viet Cong guerrillas ordered them put down. They said they did not witness the final moments of the two, who apparently were murdered because they were slowing the Viet Cong escape.

The sergeants, who were pronounced in good condition by doctors, said their captors fed them rice several times a day.

They said the Communists gave no reason for freeing them. After their release, it took 2½ hours to make their way down the mountainside, led by a mountaineer who worked for the guerrillas.

First reports said the sergeants were rescued by South Vietnamese forces, and President Kennedy sent a note of thanks to President Ngo Dinh Diem.

One other American soldier, Spec. 4 George F. Fryett Jr. of Los Angeles, is believed held by the Viet Cong. He disappeared from outside Saigon on Christmas and has not been heard from.

Castro Vents Verbal Ire Against U.S.

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro, in a slashing anti-U.S. attack, declared Tuesday that Washington was trying to destroy the Cuban revolution.

Addressing a mammoth May Day rally, Castro asserted that establishment of what he called a proletarian revolution 90 miles from the United States constituted one of "the most salient and glorious challenges in the world."

He spoke for 70 minutes under a blazing tropical sun in crowded Jose Marti Square.

In a voice frequently tense with anger, he charged that the United States pooled all its resources to defeat Cuba's Red regime but that the Castro government "is still standing and still advancing."

Castro blamed what he called a U.S. blockade for Cuba's food shortages and rationing. He declared, however, that present sacrifices signified Cuba's victory imperialism.

"Sacrifice is triumph," Castro shouted as thousands of supporters cheered and waved flags. The speech climaxed Cuba's May Day celebrations.

Castro said Cuba's enemies claim that food and other shortages were caused by failure of his revolution and the deficiencies of socialism.

"What they haven't said is that the rationing is to distribute the products more equally. In part, it is a product of our deficiencies but principally it is the product of brutal economic aggression," he said.

Editor Asserts Plant Bombing Was Deliberate

MIDLOTHIAN, Tex. (AP) — A fiery Texas editor said Tuesday the bombing of his newspaper plant was deliberate.

Penn Jones Jr., editor and publisher of the weekly Midlothian Mirror, said, "Whatever they threw in burned a hole in the concrete floor half an inch deep."

The bomb was described as a crude "Molotov cocktail" and did an estimated $5,000 damage.

Jones said he had offers from surrounding newspapers to help him get out his edition. "We'll editorialize this week just like we've always done," he said.

Jones said he had had a lot of trouble lately. Most, he said, stem from his criticism of the John Birch Society and other right-wing organizations.

He took particular issue with a speech before students at Midlothian High School by Edward W. Seay whom Jones described as a fulltime campaign worker for Edwin A. Walker, former major general and candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

That criticism, Jones said, resulted in two fights for which he was fined $11.35 each.

Child Told She Is Only Survivor

LA MARQUE, Tex. (AP) — There was a small chance that Margaret Elizabeth Smith would get to go home today—wherever home may be.

Margaret, 9, is the only survivor of a family of six. Her parents, two brothers and a sister drowned Sunday in Galveston Bay.

There were eight people in the 14-foot boat when a wave from a passing ship tipped it over. Only Margaret and Raymond H. Henry, 30, survived.

Searchers have found the bodies of three children, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith and Danny Ray Henry, 12, are missing.

"Margaret may get to go home today, but I don't think so," said Dr. George M. Fleming.

"She was in the water a long time and we have to watch for pneumonia. But she's getting along just fine and won't be here much longer."

No one told Margaret the fate of her parents and Guy Wesley Smith, 18 months, Betty Gail Smith, 7, and Charles Milton Smith Jr., 4.

Sheriff J. B. Kline talked with her Sunday night.

"We never did actually tell her her parents are dead," Kline said. "She told us. She said she saw her mother drown and later saw her father go under."

Relatives from Amarillo, Dallas and Hurst, Tex., visited Margaret Tuesday.

"We haven't decided who she will stay with yet," said Edna Young of Amarillo, Mrs. Smith's mother. "We all want her."

Henry spent a long day at stark, windy Eagle Point—about 45 miles southeast of Houston—watching search boats play the rough bay water for his son.

Henry, an oilfield worker, has six other children and a wife. They did not go on the fishing trip

Ferrer Gives Vivid Account Of Hollywood Life

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)— Rosemary Clooney gets a chance to tell her side today in her contested divorce action against actor-director Jose Ferrer.

The blonde singer was expected to take the stand in the third day in Superior Court trial. So far, only Ferrer has testified in what could yet become a bitter divorce case.

Most of the time has been spent unsuccessfully in behind-the-scene negotiations over Miss Clooney's demand for $8,000 monthly support for herself and the couple's five youngsters, ages 2 to 7.

Ferrer, 49, gave a vivid account Tuesday of how movie stars live beyond their means—or how easy one can go broke on $10,000 a week.

"It costs me $6,000 a month just to run our Beverly Hills home with its eight servants," Ferrer testified in resonant theatrical tones.

"I thought it a bit excessive, but then I'm no housekeeper."

He admitted that he personally paid $6,043.68 in one year to a tennis professional for lessons and equipment.

His wife, now 33, once explained the tennis expense thus: "when Joe takes up anything, he wants to be the best."

Ferrer told a crowded courtroom that when the couple separated in August 1961, he was insolvent, had borrowed all he could, and had lived throughout his marriage mostly by deficit spending.

Then he enumerated jobs from November 1961 to April 1962 that paid him $250,000 in six months. Even so, he said, it's hard making ends meet when you're a movie star.

Ferrer said he knows nothing about his own business affairs and pays out 25 per cent of his gross income for others to handle the details.

"I do know that on a gross income of $100,000 to $150,000 a year," he testified, "I will net less than $25,000 for myself—about what it takes to run our house for four months."

Ike Deplores Vulgarity Of Present Age

ABILENE, Kan. (AP)— Dwight D. Eisenhower compared American scientific and material gains in this century with "the vulgarity, the sensuality, indeed the downright filth," and said, "I wonder if we have advanced."

Speaking Tuesday at the dedication of the $3-million Eisenhower Library here, the former president asked, "What has happened to our concepts of beauty, decency and morality?"

Eisenhower was disdainful of some trends in modern art and entertainment. He referred to the new dance craze, the twist, saying he did not personally dislike it but "it does represent some change in our standards."

The former president called for a return to the standards and values of pioneer America.

He said the only danger to the United States "is in forgetting our glory, our traditions, our history, our ideals and aspirations so that we allow our fiber to weaken."

A crowd of several thousand persons stood in a hot sun to hear Eisenhower speak. Earlier about 25,000 lined the streets of Abilene's business district to greet him.

The library, built with private funds, will house Eisenhower's presidential papers. It is across the street from the house where the former president spent his boyhood.

Dignitaries attending the dedication included Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, Eisenhower's three brothers, and five former members of his Cabinet.

President Kennedy sent a statement praising the library as a cultural asset.

"The papers of the president are indispensable source materials in the study of American history," Kennedy said.

Eisenhower and his wife left Abilene aboard a special railroad car for their home in Gettysburg, Pa.

Judy Garland, 'Ben Casey' Up For Emmy Award

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's Queen Victoria against Judy Garland—and Dr. Ben Casey shouldering his way through the crowded competition close behind them—as Emmy time comes again to television.

The nominations are in, and secret ballots to be cast by 6,000 members of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences will decide who will win the coveted awards at a May 22 telecast.

The 137 nominations—for 26 categories—were announced Tuesday.

Leading contenders for the 1961-62 Program of the Year honors are Judy Garland and the "Victoria Regina" biography of Queen Victoria, which starred Julie Harris. Miss Garland won a bid for her Feb. 25 special.

Ben Casey, ABC's young surgeon, won eight nominations, including a nod for the young star, Vincent Edwards.

Many of the famous old names of television—Jack Benny, Robert Young, Bob Hope and Dinah Shore—didn't get a tumble. A lot of eager youngsters skyrocketed into the top competition.

There was an emphasis on the documentary, news and public affairs program. Of the five Program of the Year nominees, three were in this area: "Biography of a Bookie Joint," "Vincent Van Gogh," and "Walk in My Shoes," a study of racial integration.

The ABC-TV network emerged as a top contender. Last year the network gathered in four nominations. This year it won 35. NBC-TV got 54 and CBS-TV 45.

In the dramatic field, "Victoria Regina" promised to make a sweep similar to that of last season's "Macbeth." The Harris vehicle scored in seven categories.

In addition to the program honor, Miss Garland also was in the running for the best musical performance—along with Perry Como, Yves Montand, Carol Burnett and Edie Adams. The Garland show was also up for best variety program, with the shows of Perry Como, Walt Disney, Edie Adams and Garry Moore.

Appointments To Academy Offered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Coast Guard has offered four Negroes appointments to the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn., provided they pass physical examinations.

A Coast Guard spokesman said Tuesday the service made a nationwide recruitment drive at predominately Negro high schools and junior colleges and the offers to the four followed.

President Kennedy had complained, the spokesman said, that he saw no Negroes among the academy cadets marching in his 1961 inaugural parade.

Rocket Plane Record Revised By U.S. Agency

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The U.S. space agency revised downward Tuesday the record altitude reached by an X15 rocket plane—from 255,000 feet to 246,700 feet, or 46.7 miles.

It was still a record for winged aircraft. The X15's previous record was 217,000 feet.

Paul Bikle, director of the space agency's flight research center here, called the flight a complete success—despite the fact it fell almost two miles short of the intended altitude of 255,000 feet and almost a mile short of the plane's designed height maximum of 250,000 feet.

Some doubt that the X15 had reached 255,000 feet during its flight Monday had been expressed after it was learned three radar stations tracking the plane failed to agree.

Right To Vote Must Be Earned

The Kennedy forces are working towards legislation which would for all purposes eliminate literacy tests for voters.

In particular, both the President and Attorney General are working on a bill which would specifically set a sixth grade education as adequate educational background to cast a ballot.

This proposal is a direct affront to the Constitution which obviously leaves to the states the qualifications for voting. But the Constitution has not thus far served as a brake for the administration's foremost desire and goal - - that of getting votes.

The bill is not aimed at the south alone even though southern congressmen are the main hope for it's defeat. Much controversy hinges around the Puerto Ricans who have settled in New York over the past 15 years. Though these persons entered the country from a U. S. territory and did not have to take tests for citizenship, many do not know enough English to keep in touch with current event's and politics.

There are 21 states which have literacy tests which a voter must meet. The callous attitude of the Kennedy forces was highlighted by Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy when he said:

"The question is not whether this bill is valid, but whether is would correct the situation." It has been a long time since a top cabinet official has subscribed so boldly to the cynical theory that the end justifies the means.

Former President Harry S. Truman was reported to have said on one occasion that every new voter should be obliged to pass the same sort of tests given to aliens who seek to acquire citizenship.

If Mr. Truman indeed was the observer of this condition, he was correct in applying it to prospective voters. By all odds a native-born citizen preparing to assume the responsibilities of voting should be at least as well informed as an immigrant.

Requirements for voter qualifications are as a rule too low and should be tightened rather than relaxed. For a wide variety of reasons, the southerners and others who are battling against this purely political plan of the "New Frontier" should win a victory.

The right to vote cannot be tossed about freely to persons who have no sense of responsibility if a free government is to be maintained.

It Must Not Happen Here

The drive to extend government ownership of industry in the United States has long been centered on electric power production. While there have been some breathing spells in the political efforts to saddle this costly socialistic philosophy on the nation, it is being pushed again with full vigor, and its extension to space communications is proposed.

It is heartening to see President Kennedy support a bill to charter a $1 billion private corporation to build and operate a satellite communications system under close government supervision. This is in keeping with the principle of private property ownership and private enterprise as fostered in the past under our constitution and representative form of government, in contrast with socialism, communism and all other dictatorial systems.

Let us hope that America inventive genius will be permitted to pioneer in space communications for the benefit of all the people the same as it has in electric power development, radio, electronics and every branch of science, medicine and industry.

It is from progress, under free enterprise, that this nation has enjoyed the greatest spiritual and material advances of any country on earth.

If you want a sample of government in control of personal and business activity, take a look at the concrete wall between East and West Berlin. It had to be built to keep people from fleeing from a socialized nation to a free nation.

It is interesting to note that those who favor government ownership of space communications also favor government ownership of other lines of American business.

The armadillo is known as the "poor man's pig" in parts of Texas.

The first recorded seiche was on Lake Geneva in 1730. It was noted by a Swiss engineer, Fatio de Duillier.

According to a recent poll, the most popular places to see in Virginia are Colonial Williamsburg, the Skyline Drive, the Blue Ridge Parkway and Mount Vernon.

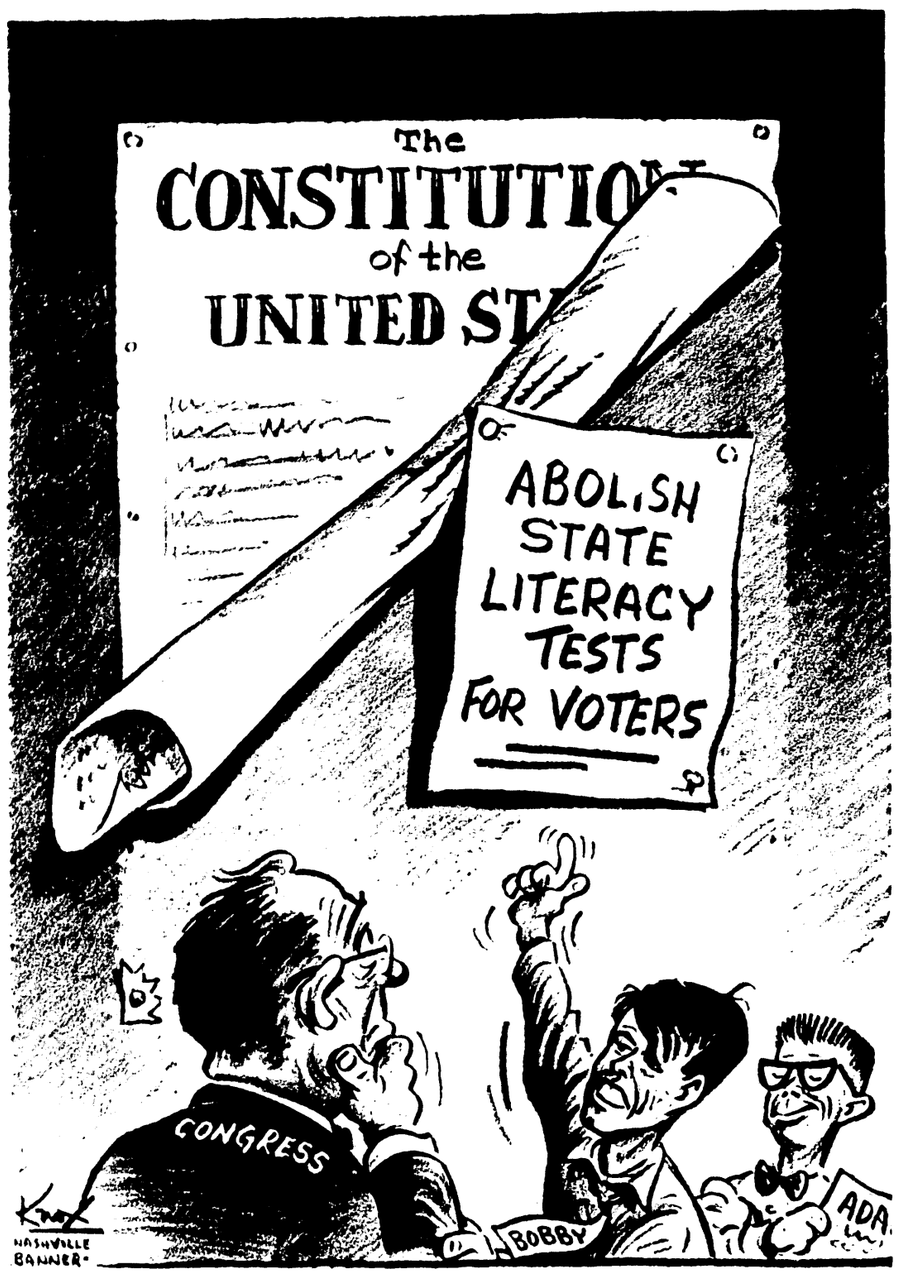
Another Rollback



Sensitive Relationship Between Washington And Business

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — When the stock market takes a terrible beating, costing shareholders about $5,000 million in value in one day — as it did this week — and the decline is attributed to unsettling news from Washington, the sensitive relationship between governmental power and the operations of American business becomes all too evident.

One wonders if the people in the Kennedy administration from the top down realize that one-man government, without benefit of law, can really shake confidence and hold back natural expansion. For neither short-range nor long-range business planning can be carried on without some degree of certainty that such plans will not be disrupted.

Now, Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges really didn't issue any threats in his Tuesday press conference, but he tried in his own way to define the Washington situation as it relates to the price problem. What came over the news tickers in condensed form, however, was disquieting — and again largely because it is a novel thing to try to run a business nowadays and set your own prices while a threat of FBI detectives and grand-jury investigations hangs over your head.

CANDID PICTURE

It is important to read exactly what Secretary Hodges said, for, while he certainly didn't intend to unsettle anybody, he gave a candid picture of the chaotic situation that confronts American business in setting prices. Here are excerpts from the recorded transcript of his news conference:

"Q. Mr. Secretary, would you think that the events have committed the government to a more active role in price and wage determination than the administration had anticipated or desired?

"A. You know, I think it could go the opposite way. I think that the fact that this worked—certainly with a little discussion and persuasion that this kind of thing worked, could postpone—if there were to be any legislation, to postpone that, because I think this kind of thing, the way the decision was finally formulated, that that would show that there is not the same need that some people may have been saying during these critical few days of discussion.

"Q. Does that mean that you think we should have executive price control?

"A. No, it doesn't mean that at all. I was trying to say the other, and I have said publicly twice since this steel discussion, that I thought one of the worst things that could happen to this country would be for us to go into government control, the executive couldn't have any control except as authorized by the Congress.

"Q. Mr. Secretary, what I was really trying to get at was more concerned with the executive branch only. Wouldn't you say that now the executive branch, the administration, has to decide every time there is a price increase whether it is justified and should be allowed or whether it is unjustified and the government should attempt to beat it down?

"A. I was asked on the west coast Thursday or Friday a repeated question five or six times from a person who had the idea that the President or the Administration was going to decide each individual case where a firm was going to raise prices . . . I was sure the Administration, Mr. Kennedy, was not interested in getting into each settlement and each detail. What he did, what we did as a whole was to discuss and try to resolve a basic industry such as steel because that is and was a bellwether which would have affected, one way or the other would have affected, all other negotiations and the economy itself. There may be others more or less like it, but not every individual case.

"Q. Well, which are the others that are more or less like it?

"A. I would say aluminum following on would have some relationship. I have not heard it discussed in the administration, so I don't want to say that has been brought up.

"Q. Mr. Secretary, for how long is the steel industry precluded from raising its prices?

"A. There is no preclusion. I gather there is no decision as to how long. They just didn't raise them at the time of this labor settlement because it don't seem to make sense."

HELPFUL

Now, the above statements were made by Secretary Hodges frankly and with an intention to be helpful. But many a businessman will throw up his hands in despair if he tries to find out from these utterances what is going to happen to the price structure, how much interference will come from the government on prices, and what—if any—interference is going to be exerted on the matter of increasing wage costs.

Life under one-man government, without benefit of law, without benefit of hearings at which all sides can be heard and economic facts can be presented, is something new. Even laws that authorized wage-and-price control in wartime at least provided a board of several persons who function in a quasi-judicial way. But the latest system, or lack of system, is a helter-skelter affair that can only produce economic anarchy. An experimenting President and an indifferent Congress must soon clarify the situation so as to prevent more declines in the markets and remove the roadblocks in the way of the capital-goods expansion which is so necessary for economic recovery.

Clergyman Solon Sees Danger In Red-Ruled Unions

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.

WASHINGTON — A Wisconsin Republican Congressman, member of the House UnAmerican Activities Committee, takes issue with Robert Kennedy over a recent claim that American Communists "can't do anything to us."

That position was taken by the Attorney General two months ago in an attempt to soft - pedal dangers of the U. S. Communist Party. It was foreign espionage agents, he said, who constituted a threat to American security.

The Congressman is Henry C. Schadeberg, a Lutheran Minister elected to the House only two years ago. His service on the committee has convinced him that a very real danger exists from the 10,000 hard - core members of the American Communist Party.

LARGE UNIONS

Much of that threat is presented by several large unions known to be under Communist control. The first of these is the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, thrown out of the CIO in 1950 as Communist-dominated.

In the summer of 1951, at the height of the Korean War, this union went off on strike. It pulled 100,000 nonferrous metalworkers went out of the mines and cut the nation's copper production by 95 per cent. The strike came at a time when copper was in the shortest supply of all strategic materials. Only when President Truman invoked the Taft - Hartley Act did the strike end.

Another Red union is the American Communications Association. HUAC hearings held from August, 1960 to November, 1961 showed that the union — bounced from the CIO twelve years ago as Communist - controlled — remains that way today.

The ACA represents 8,000 workers, a great number of them engineering and technical personnel who man the country's radio and TV stations. It would be possible for any disloyal members among these to completely upset the civil defense CONELRAD system. By leaving a transmitter on the air or identifying the location of the transmitter they control, domestic Reds could supply a missile guidance system with a much - needed homing system.

In addition, members of the ACA service the highly sensitive communication lines of the U. S. Government, including those of the Defense Department and other critical agencies.

Also thrown out of the CIO as Red - controlled was the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union of Harry Bridges. This union controls shipping on the West Coast from Alaska to Southern California.

Louisiana Woman Is Tallest

By JIM BISHOP

Whaddya Know? — Part One. The tavern, as a seat of culture, has been neglected. Here, men shed their inhibitions and pontificate in matters which, if discussed at home, would lead only to derisive laughter. Sometimes in the saloon, such discussions lead to an invitation to step out in the alley, but that's another story.

To stop the fisticuffs, two English pub owners, Norris and Ross McWhirter, have written a book called "Guinness Book of World Records" published by Stirling Publishing Co. It will, I suppose, be kept under every bar so that when the discussion becomes loud and profane, the bartender can reach for the book, and say: "Boys, just a minute. . . ."

Of course, these may be the bartender's last words, or he may awaken with a shot glass between his teeth, but this only proves that men do not like to listen to the voice of reason. The records in the book, just to give you an idea, encompass many subjects.

DE QUINCY

Tallest Woman: Dolores Pullard, of De Quincy, Louisiana. She is 8 feet 2 inches. At the age of seven, she was 7 feet tall. Smallest Man was Mr. Geoffrey Hudson who, in the year 1649, was 18 inches tall and 30 years of age. Heaviest Human: Robert E. Hughes, of Fish Hook, Illinois. In 1958, he was 1,069 pounds. The Lightest Man was Hopkin Hopkins, of Wales. He lived to be 17, and weighed 12 pounds at his death. The Oldest Human was Pierre Joubert of Charlestbourg, Canada, who died in 1814 at the authenticated age of 113 years, 124 days.

Mrs. Fedor Vassilet, of Russia, had the Most Babies: 69 in 27 confinements. Most Fingers: A Spaniard, who had 26. A Chinese priest had fingernails measuring 22½ inches. The Longest Record For Hiccups was 7 years, attained by Jack O'Leary of Los Angeles, who hicced 30,000,000 times. The Smallest Waist was attained by Mmle. Polaire, a French actress, and it was 13 inches around. The Most Surgical Operations record belongs to Lionel De Witt, who stepped on a land mine at El Alamein. He continued to live after 410 trips to the operating room. The All - Time Genius is John Stuart Mill, whose I.Q. was "over 200" and who studied Greek at the age of 3. Biggest Animal is the blue whale, 103 feet long, weighing 131 tons. Fastest Animal is the cheetah, 84 m.p.h.

Smallest Bird is the Bee Humming Bird, one - fourteenth of an ounce. Longest Flight was by a Laysan Albatross, which winged from the Philippines to Midway Island, 4,120 miles without a stop. Fastest Fish it the swordfish, clocked at 39 m.p.h. A snail moves at three - one hundredths of a mile per hour. The Battledore - wing Fairy Fly is so small that he can crawl through the eye of a needle without hitting the sides.

Fastest Wings are worn by the Midge: 57,000 per minute. Most Sensitive Nose is the male Silkworm Moth, which can whiff his missues at a range of 2 miles. An insect called a millipede has the Most Legs: 784. Smallest Brain or Size was a prehistoric dope named Stegosaurus, which weighted 6 tons, with a cerebellum of 2½ ounces. (Listening, Arthur Brisbane?)

Worst Earthquake was Japanese. It hit on Sept. 1., 1923, and killed 142,807 people. Greatest Explosion was the eruption of Krakatoa, in Indonesia on Aug. 27, 1883. Rocks flew 34 miles high and the noise was heard 3,600 miles away on Rodriguez Island. The Earth Weights 5,887,613,230,000,000,000,000 tons and picks up 11,500 more tons each day, through falling cosmic dust. The Earth is estimated to be 4,950 million years of age.

The Highest Wave was seen by the U. S. S. Ramapo in a Pacific storm on Feb. 6th, 1933. It measured 112 feet from crest to trough. World's Tallest Mountain is not Everest. It is Mauna Key in the Hawaiian Islands and measures 32,024 feet, most of which is under the sea. Greatest Mountain Range has never been seen. It is 7,000 miles long and 500 miles wide, almost all under the Atlantic Ocean.

LOWEST

Lowest Place on Earth is the Dead Sea, 1,286 feet below sea level. Greatest Flow of Water is the Amazon, which discharges 3½ million cubic feet into the Atlantic every second. Largest Submarine River is Cromwell Current, flowing east under the Pacific Ocean. It is 250 miles wide, 3,500 miles long.

Angel Falls in Venezuela has a Single Drop of 2,650 feet. Highest Temperature was Aug. 11, 1933 at San Luis, Mexico, 136.4 degrees. Lowest Temperature was in Antarctica on Aug. 25, 1958: 125 degrees below zero. Highest Wind: Mt. Washington, New Hampshire April 24, 1934: 231 m.p.h. Most Rain: Bahia Felix, Chile, 1916: 348 days.

Oldest Tree is a Bristlecone Pine in the White Mountains of California. It started to grow in the year 2640 B.C.

How do I know? It was planted by my father, that's how.

Unemployed Vets' Benefits

By MARTIN E. SEGAL

Social Security coverage went into uniform at the start of 1957.

Its benefits then were extended to members of the Armed Forces. From that time on every soldier, sailor, airman, marine, etc., has been covered exactly as if he were working in private employment.

One little known change involves veterans of World War II and the Korean conflict.

At the same time that Social Security was extended to members of the Armed Forces, it was decided that wage credits of $160 a month could be given to those who were in service any time between Sept. 16, 1940, and Dec. 31, 1956.

These are quite different than earning credits.

The wage credits are not actually listed on the veteran's Social Security account. They are there in case they are needed, as a bookkeeping item.

This is an example of how they would be applied.

When a veteran is ready to retire at age 62 or over, Social Security calculates his average earnings to determine his benefit. Now, if by adding the $160 a month wage credits it would raise the veteran's average earnings, then this would be done. In other words, it works to increase the possible benefit.

But if adding such wage credits do nothing to increase average earnings — which the experts say is the situation in most cases—then the wage credits are forgotten.

The thing is that they're there, as a kind of backlog, in case they're needed.

WAGE CREDITS

There is considerable misunderstanding about these wage credits, as illustrated in this letter I received from Mr. L. T. of Oakland, Calif. He asks:

"I would like to know if unemployed veterans like myself are eligible for wage credit. I was in service from December 1942 to January 1946. I know that veterans are eligible for wage credit of $160 a month for the time spent in service. Does this mean that the veteran is eligible to draw the wage credit only when he is drawing his Social Security? Or can he get it when he is drawing his unemployment insurance?"

There's no actual money to draw on. As I explained earlier, this is only a bookkeeping device. They can never be changed into cash.

Mr. T. cannot get any of his wage credits while on unemployment insurance. Nor will he really draw on them when he retires. If they will help increase his retirement benefit—when he retires—his earnings record will be increased by $160 a month for the 38 months he was in the service. But that money will be represented only by some figures on a paper, never by cash.

There are certain conditions to qualifying for wage credits. First, the veteran has to have a discharge other than dishonorable, bad conduct, desertion, or resignation for the good of the service. Second, the veteran must have served at least 90 days.

Veterans who remained in service may also have earned these wage credits, but eligibility depends on how long they served in the Armed Forces. A veteran can accumulate retirement credits for the years 1940-1956 through only one system — either Social Security or the retirement system of his service. This means that if he serves long enough to earn on Army or Navy or Air Force pension, he doesn't get the Social Security wage credits. However, if he leaves his service before becoming eligible for a service pension, he has the Social Security wage credits to fall back on.

Do you have any questions on retirement? If so, write to Martin E. Segal in care of this newspaper. It is not possible for Mr. Segal to answer questions personally but those of wide interest will be discussed in future columns.

25 Years Ago

Here are the events that made news 25 years ago today in the May 2, 1937, issue of the News-Star:

Heavy winds and rains claimed the lives of five persons in the south Louisiana - Mississippi area. Losses were also suffered in the strawberry and tomato growing sections of the states.

Wade O. Martin, chairman of the Louisiana Public Service commission, said his office would launch an investigation into public utilities operating in the state to determine if fair rate practices were being followed.

The Communist international organization named the United States and France as two nations where the workers had "checked" capitalism.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A BITE-PRONE BOY

More than 1,000 cases of cat scratch fever have been reported in our medical journals. An 11 year old boy was the latest and the report caught my eye because of his past history of multiple bites. He had been bitten by a dog at age 5 and had parakeet fever at age 9. A guinea pig bit his right index finger in 1959 and several months later, he was seen with numerous cat scratches on his face and arms. Late in 1959 he was nipped on the thumb by a rat.

Dr. Robert T. S. Jim, of Honolulu, reported this case in the Journal of the American Medical Association. The child had been in contact with cats but had no scratches when he was admitted to the hospital with cat scratch disease. The sick boy complained of headache and lack of pep, he had a tender and swollen lump (gland) in his left armpit, and there were black and blue marks on the chest and extremities.

Many tests were done but the diagnosis was made only when the skin test for cat scratch fever was found to be strongly positive. Treatment was started immediately and, within a week, the child was well. He recovered faster than the majority. As a rule, the glands in the armpits, neck, and groin remain enlarged for several weeks but all victims recover in time.

The name of the disease is a misnomer because 50 per cent of all victims have not been near a cat. The disease was acquired from contaminated splinters, thorns, or fragments of bone. From this we assume that the causative virus exists not only on the cat's claws but on other objects.

The virus does no more harm to the cat than do fleas on a dog. But in humans, the disease is generalized and involves the lymph glands of the body.

The cat is implicated only by hindsight because the individual usually has forgotten the scratch by the time symptoms appear.

Cat scratch fever is best avoided by careful handling of cats, especially when they are carried on the shoulders. Don't blame Figaro—he needs to scratch on something to keep his claws sharp.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

SPREADING RINGWORM

J.F. writes: My husband has a ringworm on his thigh, which is spreading down to the knee. He is a chauffeur and uses a spring type cushion while driving. Could the friction from sliding cause the eruption to spread.

REPLY

Irritation of an existing ringworm could cause the lesion to spread. There are other possibilities and he should visit his family physician for first hand advice. The anti-ring worm tablets are effective so that cure is in the offering.

PERFORATING ULCER

J.M. writes: Can a duodenal ulcer perforate more than once?

REPLY

Yes, but it would be unusual. After all, there is nothing to prevent the ulcer from eroding thru the same area. Most ulcer victims have learned their lesson after going thru one perforation and take extra good care of themselves or undergo surgery.

HAIR LOSS AFTER FEVER

R.M.P. writes: After an attack of flu with fever, does falling hair tend to occur in women?

REPLY

Loss of hair has followed illness with high fever. The condition usually is temporary and hair regrows several months after recovery.

DISORDERS OF AGING

J.G.W. writes: Can a person have arteriosclerosis and Parkinson's disease at the same time?

REPLY

Yes, and many do because Parkinsonism is most prevalent in older people.

TELEVISION NOTES

Powell Film On Newsmen Good

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Cecil B. DeMille knew the box office value of combining sex and religion, and Dick Powell is not one to overlook anybody else's good ideas.

His NBC-TV show Tuesday night told of a country girl assaulted by some punks as she tried to visit her Bible student boyfriend in New York; and it also happened to be a preview of a new fall series, "Saints and Sinners," starring Nick Adams and Ann Blyth as reporters.

Like all newspapermen, Adams is handsome, talented and charming. And Miss Blyth is worldly and smiles at the editor, like all girl reporters.

As for the story, it looks like a strong commercial video entry for 1962-63. It doesn't make any pretenses about cutting out violence. The assault scene, in a car, was strong stuff, but was brief, cut quickly when the dramatic effect was established.

HONEST ATTEMPT

Despite melodramatic moments, and some timely coincidences — such as people finding each other at crucial junctures in crowded New York — the writing by Adrian Spies and directing by Buzz Kulik came across as an honest attempt to capture the pulse of a big city paper and those who appear in print.

The country girl, who had been promised a ride to the Bible institute by the punks at a bus station, struggles free from their car after the attempted assault. One of the punks, conscience-stricken, runs away, too, after trying to help her.

When the girl goes to the police, Adams, a young rewrite man, gets the story. When the Bible student reads it, his background makes him ashamed and sets his girl off on a search for the punk who ran away, so he can tell her fiance the truth—that she escaped safely.

She finds him in a dancehall she had heard him mention. The two other punks find them there too, but the cops and Adams show up just in time with the student.

FORMER NEWSMAN

Spies is a former newsman and is smart enough to know that people are more interested, in most cases, in the story than the reporter who writes it. He did not overexpose Adams or Miss Blyth, but had the various personal dramas woven into the one major plot. One of his excellent character actors was Russell Thorson, who plays an aging, over-the-hill rewriteman who freezes at his typewriter under deadline pressure in a truly tearful, pathetic scene.

I never liked Adams in "The Rebel" series. He seemed out of his milieu in 19th century garb. But he was at home Tuesday night as an ambitious big town boy. At times, his combined cockiness and sensitivity brought back memories of the late John Garfield, and that isn't bad.

Burt Brinckerhoff was his usual topflight self as the student, as were Carolyn Kearney as the girl and Robert Simon as an assistant city editor. Miss Blyth was a little hard to swallow as a Washington correspondent, even though she wore a trenchcoat

U.S. Exhibit Proposed For Soviet Display

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has proposed to the Soviet Union that an American exhibition be held in Moscow and Leningrad in view of the scheduled Soviet participation in the 1964-65 New York World's Fair.

The proposal follows the recent unexpected cancellation of plans for a world's fair in Moscow in 1967 on the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

The cancellation deprived the United States of an opportunity to put on a national exhibition in the Soviet capital such as the Soviet Union is presumed to be planning for the World's Fair in New York.

A few days ago the State Department, it was learned today, sent a note to the Soviet Embassy proposing an American exhibition in the Soviet Union at a mutually agreeable date to match the Soviet exhibit at the New York fair.

The reciprocity policy is followed in all U.S.-Soviet agreements on cultural, scientific, industrial, agricultural and educational exchanges. It provides that when the Russians put on an exhibit or send a delegation to the United States, the U.S. government can put on a similar exhibit or send a comparable delegation to the Soviet Union.

Last March 2 the Soviet government signed a contract for 78,000 square feet of space at the New York fair grounds at a rental cost of $468,000. The contract contained a provision for cancelation unless the State Department within 60 days gave the Soviet government a statement of intention to participate in the 1967 Moscow fair.

8 Communist Guerrillas Killed In South Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —South Vietnamese planes and troops airlifted by 22 U.S. Marine helicopters killed eight Communist guerrillas and captured 22 Tuesday in the Mekong River delta.

During the past week more than 500 refugees from mountain villages have flocked to the South Vietnamese highlands town of Banmethout where a medical dispensary was set up recently by the U.S. Army.

U.S. special forces troops are working to win local allegiances away from the guerrillas who infiltrate the surrounding mountains.

The running border dispute between South Viet Nam and Cambodia continued with South Viet Nam claiming a new raid by Cambodian soldiers.

The semiofficial government news agency, Viet Nam Press, charged that on April 21 two Cambodian soldiers crossed the frontier near the Vietnamese frontier village of Vinh Hoi Dong, 115 miles west of Saigon, and stole 25 oxen.

Viet Nam and Cambodia have been exchanging angry notes since Viet Nam charged that about 200 Cambodians led by soldiers crossed the border into Vinh Lac village April 18, killing 54 Vietnamese civilians, raping women and burning down huts. Cambodia has denied the charge.

More Power To Handle Strikes OK'd

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential advisory panel has recommended giving government more power to deal with national emergency labor strikes.

For one thing, the President would have the authority to halt such strikes for an 80-day cooling-off period without obtaining court injunctions. Fact-finding groups appointed by the President would be empowered to suggest settlement terms.

These were the major recommendations in a report handed President Kennedy Tuesday night by his labor-management advisers. If enacted by Congress they would upset provisions of the 15-year-old Taft-Hartley law.

Kennedy, calling the findings highly meaningful and significant, congratulated the 21-man committee and promised to give the proposals serious consideration in drafting his own recommendations for Congress.

The advisory group—made up of seven representatives each from industry, labor unions and the public—called for broad revision of Taft-Hartley law procedures for handling big strikes that threaten the nation's health or safety.

Among the committee members only one industry man, automaker Henry Ford II, dissented from the proposed emergency strike changes. Ford said the present law has worked remarkably well and it would be both unjustified and unwise to give fact-finding boards power to recommend labor dispute settlement terms.

Such industry men as Chairmen Joseph L. Block of Inland Steel and John M. Franklin of U.S. Lines and Presidents Richard S. Reynolds Jr. of Reynolds Metals and Thomas S. Watson of International Business Machines Corp. went along with the plan for overhauling big strike procedures.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, the advisory committee chairman, later took the group aboard a White House yacht, the Sequoia, for dinner. He remarked that the occasion ought to demonstrate that those having predicted an early demise of the labor-management committee were dead wrong.

Ike Men Describe Cabinet Highlights

By DAYTON BLAIR

ABILENE, Kan. (AP) — Early efforts to get Dwight D. Eisenhower to run for president. His quick wit. His forthrightness. Statehood for Hawaii and Alaska.

Four members of President Eisenhower's Cabinet pick those incidents as highlights of their years in Washington.

The four—Fred A. Seaton, former secretary of the interior; William P. Rogers, attorney general; Herbert Brownell Jr., attorney general, and Neil H. McElroy, defense, reminisced Tuesday after dedication of the Eisenhower presidential library.

Former secretary of the treasury Robert P. Anderson also attended the dedication but left immediately.

Brownell said his trip to Paris early in 1952 to try and convince Eisenhower to accept the Republican nomination was his outstanding memory of the Eisenhower years.

Brownell recalled he was sent by Gen. Lucius D. Clay, Henry Cabot Lodge, Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas and Harry Darby, a former Kansas senator.

"They felt Ike was on the verge of agreeing to do this," Brownell said. "Ike said he hadn't made up his mind."

Brownell said Eisenhower told him some Democrats had sought him for their party's nomination but that if he ran it would be as a Republican.

Brownell was also on the receiving end of barbed presidential wit.

On one occasion, Brownell said, he was explaining a legal brief to Eisenhower, who had asked that it be kept short. After he had talked a while, Eisenhower interrupted with a story in which a man told a neighbor he had half a dozen reasons for not attending church.

"The first was I was excommunicated and somehow the other five don't make much difference," the story went.

Brownell took the hint and cut the explanation short.

Rogers also recalled a humorous incident.

He said Eisenhower avoided any signs of pretentiousness around his grandson, Davis, who called his grandfather "Ike."

One day at the White House, Eisenhower called the boy over and said, "I want you to meet Dick Nixon, the vice president of the United States."

"The vice president of the United States. Wow!" the youngster answered.

Use of federal troops during the Little Rock school integration crisis was recalled by Rogers as a major incident in his career. When he outlined plans for removing the troops by the end of the year, Eisenhower quickly ordered "Go ahead," Rogers said.

"The President gave Cabinet officers complete security and confidence," he said.

To Seaton, a Nebraska publisher and now a Republican candidate for governor, the most important event was statehood for Hawaii and Alaska.

As secretary of the interior, Seaton had been governing official for the two territories.

"The go-ahead signal from him to work for statehood was the biggest moment I had," he said. "It enabled us to win a long battle."

McElroy remembered launching of the first Soviet satellite. At the time, Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson was out of Washington and McElroy was expected to be appointed to the post.

"The whole world was concerned because the Russians had made this tremendous jump," McElroy said. "About four months later we finally had a successful satellite."

"This was a very great moment because there had been tremendous pressure to get something done."

Admiration of the Cabinet members for Eisenhower was repaid by the former President in an off-the-cuff speech.

"There has not been a Cabinet brought together since that compares in the abilities and wisdom of that group," he said.

Schriever Warns Of Neglect In Science Research

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Air Force space expert Gen. Bernard A. Schriever has warned of a "marked neglect of basic scientific research" in the United States.

In a speech Tuesday at the three-day National Conference on Manned Space Flight, co-sponsored by the Institute of Aerospace Science and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Schriever indicated the United States is in danger of repeating its mistakes of the past in failing to take advantage of scientific achievement.

Americans discovered "two of the most outstanding inventions of this century," the airplane and the liquid-fuel rocket, he said, "yet in neither case did we realize their significance to our national security until after other nations had turned them to military purposes and directed them against us and our allies."

Schriever said there is "much evidence" that the Soviets have "similar hopes" in space to those which Nazi Germany had for the rocket.

Space is a "new medium for potential military operations and it offers the chance to achieve significant technical breakthroughs," he said.

Abandoned Dogs Face Execution

It's a dog's life for a mixed-breed female dog and her 10 puppies, abandoned by their owners and now under lock in the local dogpound.

A Southsider called the News-Star today in hopes that someone might redeem the dogs from the pound before Friday.

Dr. W. Carroll Summer, Ouachita Parish Health Unit Director, said that the parish was summoned to pick up the animals, and will feed them for five days.

After that, the animals will be executed.

Mrs. Howard Edwards, 1716 S. Ninth St., said that the canine's owners also abandoned another dog when they moved from the state, and that this animal is "grieving itself to death".

She plans to write to the National Humane Society for directions on organizing such a chapter here, to care for mistreated pets and find good home for them.

"People who really love animals and want to see them treated right wouldn't mind sending a dollar or two toward support of a Society for the Prevention to Cruelty to Animals, once it is organized here," said Mrs. Edwards.

Breard Funeral Services Held Wednesday A.M.

Funeral services for Mrs. Regina Eulalee Breard, 901 Alabama street, Monroe, were held at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday at the St. Joseph Catholic Church with the Rev. Fa. Michael Hannon officiating.

Burial, under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home, followed in the St. Matthew's Cemetery.

Mrs. Breard, 71, died in a local hospital Tuesday following an illness of 10 days.

MID SOUTH AGRICULTURAL WEATHER SUMMARY

Clearing skies last evening allowed temperatures to drop to rather chilly levels over the mid - south. The mercury fell to 43 at Selmer, Tennessee, one of the lowest readings reported this morning. As far south as northeast Louisiana the temperature dipped to 48 at Calhoun and 49 at Oak Ridge. The cool high is centered just west of Arkansas this morning and will move over the mid - south this evening. Temperatures however will not drop below the levels measured this morning and infact readings will be a little higher in north Arkansas, the Bootheel and west Tennessee. Cotton is in the crook through parts of the Louisiana Deltas and southern Mississippi data and consequently at a very temperature sensitive stage. This current cool weather is not thought as bad as last year when temperatures averaged in the mid to low 40s for the 3 morning periods of May 11, 12, and 13. Consequently this current cool spell does not present much of a threat to the crop. Soil temperatures dropped a little following the rains Monday and Tuesday, but average in the upper 50s in the Bootheel, north Arkansas, and West Tennessee and in the 60s in Mississippi, southern Arkansas and the Louisiana Delta. Bright sunshine today will aid in drying the soil and will boost soil temperatures during the afternoon. Continued clear skies tonight will allow the soil to cool off again to temperatures similar to this morning. Warmer weather tomorrow however is expected to spell the end of the current cool period. Mild to warm weather will continue into the early part of next week.

Mrs. Lena Dunn Funeral Rites Will Be Today

Funeral services for Mrs. Lena McKittrick Dunn, 85, of West Monroe, will be held at 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Dr. George W. Pomeroy, pastor of the Monroe First Methodist Church, will officiate at services in Mulhearn Funeral Home chapel. Interment will be in Riverview cemetery.

A local resident for 70 years, Mrs. Dunn was a member of the First Methodist Church. She died Tuesday in a local hospital after an illness of several months.

Survivors include four sons, Claud Dunn, Ed Dunn, William J. Dunn, all of West Monroe, and Stanley G. Dunn, Florida; two brothers, P. W. McKittrick, Houston, Tex. and C. T. McKittrick, Austin, Tex.; one sister, Mrs. Anna Kennison, San Francisco, Calif.; seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be R. V. Williams, Percy Williams, Shelby Hill, Jasper E. Jones, H. A. Wales and George E. Dozier.

New Resident At City Zoo— Big Alligator

Monroe's zoo has a new attraction today because a queen - size alligator got herself into "hot water."

Seems the 10 foot, two inch reptile slipped into the warm water outflow of Southern Natural Gas Pumping Station at Perryville.

Jim Davis of the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission took a look at the beast and figured she probably came up from the south via the Calhoun Brake.

Six men persuaded the 370 pound invader to get into a truck and transferred her to the Bernstein Park zoo, where she joined another large gator.

LIMA, Peru (AP)—The government has signed a $40-million contract with Japan's Mitsui Company for construction of several hydroelectric plants and irrigation and reclamation projects in the southernmost department of Tacna.

Farm Bureau Opens Campaign For Membership

Ouachita's Farm Bureau is participating in a state - wide drive to recruit new members who will oppose Congressional passage of the Kennedy administration's 1962 farm bill.

"We believe," said Joe Dixon, local bureau president. "That what happens to the farm legislation now before Congress will decide the issue of who will manage our farms — the federal government or the individual."

The membership campaign continues through May 10, with statewide results to be announced from Louisiana Farm Bureau headquarters on May 11.

"Who should manage your farm" is the theme of the drive. New membership goal for the state is 2,000, with 50 from Ouachita.

'Hot Shot' Mail Service Starts

West Monroe's Post Office is launching a "hot - shot" late mail collection so letters deposited before 5:45 p.m. daily will get into the mails the same night.

Homer B. Roark, postmaster, said today that 20 mail boxes along Seventh and Cypress Streets and in the downtown area will be on the hot - shot route.

A flourescent star has been painted on each box included in the route.

The special collection starts at 5:45 p.m. daily and ends at 6:22 p.m., connecting with west, east and south - bound mail runs to provide next - day delivery in this area.

West - bound airmail also benefits from the collection, so a letter in the hot - shot route normally will be delivered in Los Angeles the next day, Roark commented.

"We've been working on this for some time, repainting the mail boxes and putting on the stars," he said.

Regular mail box collections start at 7:50 a.m. and 4 p.m. daily, for the residential areas, Highway 80, the southern part of the city and the mill.

Summer Band Concerts At Forsythe Park

The Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce Sunday afternoon concerts in the Forsythe Park Band Stand have been termed highly successful, according to Jaycee Chairman Jack Murphy.

The first two concerts by Neville High School, under the directorship of Herbert Gathright, and last Sunday's concert by the Lee Junior High School led by Joe Caskey, have attracted over 500 persons each week.

The concerts, held every Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m., are free to the public with seats provided. The project, is another of the local Jaycees Americanism - community betterment programs to provide good wholesome entertainment for the entire family, possible picnics and family get-togethers, and give the many musical groups throughout the Monroe area an opportunity to perform.

The eight remaining concerts in summer series are as follows: May 6, Monroe Youth Symphony and the Neville High School Choir; May 13, Ouachita Parish High School, May 20, Northeast Louisiana State College; May 27, Thomas Jefferson Junior High, June 3 and 10, to be announced; June 17 Ouachita Parish Junior High; and June 27, to be announced.

The Northeast Louisiana State College Jazz Ensemble and the Ouachita Parish Junior High will also present special concerts during the annual Ole Fashioned July the 4th celebration at Forsythe Park.

Chamber Has Information For Vacations

Going to the World's Fair in Seattle, Washington — or anyplace else in the nation? The West Monroe Chamber of Commerce has the facts on the trip.

"I'm expecting information within the next few days on the Worlds' Fair for some people from here who are going," said Mrs. Evelyn Terrall, secretary to WMCC Manager Gene Smith.

"We'll have literature on it available in the office," she pointed out.

Information is up - to - date—"as soon as we receive new literature on a place, we do away with the old information."

State maps furnished by oil companies and Louisiana information supplied by the state Department of Commerce and Industry are included in the display.

Pamphlets are laid out on a special counter in the WMCC's outer office, so the visitor can locate facts in one swift glance.

The newest literature gives details on a hot well health resort located near Boyce.

Each area in Louisiana is covered in detail by vacation or travel guide pamphlets.

Besides giving information on this region, the literature includes travel material on sites from New York to Florida, and from the Gulf Coast to the Dakotas and California.

"People who have ever had any association with the Chamber of Commerce really use it," said Mrs. Terrall. "They call for information or come in"!

West Monroe's Postoffice now is selling the special Louisiana statehood stamp issued this week, Postmaster Homer R. Roark said today.

The stamp was issued during ceremonies in New Orleans Monday. In green, red and blue on a white background, the stamp carries the word "Louisiana", a picture of a river steamboat, and 1812-1962 for the state's 150th anniversary.

"It's quite an honor to have a commemorative stamp like this," said Roark, who attended the dedication where Postmaster General J. Ed-Day participated.

Only 15 commemorative stamps are issued each year.

ONE SUSPECT HELD

Attempted Arson Is Investigated

Monroe police are holding a local Negro woman accused in connection with an attempted arson of another's house on Wallace street, Chief James C. Kelly, Jr., said Wednesday.

The woman, identified as Mildred McClain, 116 DeSiard Avenue, at first denied the charge, but Chief Kelly said later, during interrogation, admitted trying to set fire to a house at 1314 Wallace street.

Investigating officers, Kelly said, received information that the McClain woman had gone to the house to find a friend, but when the occupant told her he was not in the house, she threatened to burn the house.

Later the occupant, Pauline Coleman, noticed smoke on the porch of the house and found foot prints around the porch.

The McClain woman was apprehended and questioned about the incident, which she later admitted, the chief said.

Also being investigated was a second attempted arson involving a house at 711 South 17th street. The occupant of the building is Vonzelle Jones.

The owner of the house, Annette Scott, 315 Atkinson street, told officers the Jones woman had told her that someone had called to say an attempt was to be made to burn the house.

Neither the occupant nor the owner knew of anyone who might have wanted to burn the house, officers were told.

His trial was set for June 7. Jones, who recently was jailed in Maryland in the company of a Negro woman in a racial incident, was charged under a state statue, LSA 32-237 (D). Jones was arrested near here on Ajpril 6.

His bond was set at $150, the same as it was on the vagrancy charge.

Man Booked For Drunk Driving

Monroe police early Wednesday booked a man for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

U.S. Shuns Power Display

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The Communist world has paraded its might—military, that is—to celebrate its way of life. It put very little stress on its nonmiliary economic status, perhaps thinking the less said the better.

The United States could parade as dazzling a display of military might, but doesn't. And its greater economic might is there for all to see, even if many seem to forget it while watching the missiles speed by.

And the Communist world also parade on May Day what it calls its people's dedication. To Western eyes this may look more like fanaticism. For Americans don't talk much about dedication to their way of life—it's very much there, though, when the chips are down. And this means it's been there all along.

In this day of space races and nuclear weapon competition, it's perhaps too easy to forget the importance of economic strength.

The United States has it—in spades.

The fast economic growth rate of the Soviet Union in the last few years looks impressive because the start was so close to zero. But compare the two economies outside the military segment, and the United States wins hands down.

The real growth, rather than the percentage of growth, finds the United States much stronger today than the Soviet Union. The actual gap is wider than when the U.S.S.R. started its plan to catch up some 10 years ago. We have grown more, put on more economic muscle, even if the rate isn't as spectacular.

The gap between total industrial output of the United States and the Soviet Union has widened, in America's favor, according to a survey by the National Bureau of Economic Research. One reason appears to be a faster growth in production per man hour in the United States. It finds Soviet labor productivity only about 20 per cent of the American level.

Americans' appreciation of economic growth in our capitalistic society may be clouded just now by a number of debates. One is that the rate isn't fast enough to pare unemployment as desired. Another is that government and business and labor have seemed to be at sword points over how best to speed growth, and how to divide the benefits. And, of course, stock market weakness always chills the public's enthusiasm and fires up its fears and uncertainties.

But much of the American economy is at or near record highs. In spite of many qualms, most industrialists still look for this year to be a very good one by any standards than those of wishful thinking.

And Americans themselves are doing very well. Total personal income is at a record high. Retail sales have set records—in spite of the fact that total savings have, too.

Federal Reserve figures show that personal assets earning interest now top $500 billion for the first time. The $510-billion total includes savings accounts, pension fund savings, U.S. savings bonds, other government bonds, life insurance savings, mortgage loans and other forms of savings. This is more than twice the total in 1950. And it also is almost twice the total of personal debts, $220 billion now compared with $66 billion in 1950.

The economic health of American industry and of the citizens is strong—much stronger than that of the Soviet Union.

Military might isn't the only thing to consider these May days.

X15 Record Is Trimmed A Bit

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—It's still a record for winged aircraft, but the X15 achieved about 246,700 feet altitude in its test flight Monday, and not 255,000 feet as first reported.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration Tuesday revised downward to 46.7 miles the height reached by the rocket plane. The previous mark for the X15 was 217,000 feet.

The 246,700-foot figure is still tentative and further study of radar data will be necessary before a final figure is released.

Marathon Debate Enters 8th Day; Votes Uncertain

WASHINGTON (AP)—Marathon discrimination in voting in federal debate on the administration's literacy test bill swung into its eighth day today with Senate leaders pressing for showdown votes next week.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he was making no advance claims that he could muster enough votes to clamp a filibuster-ending time limit on the debate being waged by Southern senators fighting the measure.

The bill seeks to prevent racial elections by prohibiting the states from barring the ballot on literacy grounds to any otherwise qualified citizen who has completed a sixth-grade education.

A two-thirds majority of senators voting is needed to invoke cloture—the Senate term for a debate limit. Mansfield and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois announced to the Senate Tuesday that they would file a cloture petition Monday on a timetable which would bring it to a vote next Wednesday.

Southern senators are fighting the bill as an unwarranted and unconstitutional invasion of states' rights. Its backers contend it is needed to protect Negroes and other minorities from discriminatory, sometimes impossible tests, of their literacy.

Mansfield said he is firm in his decision against proposals that he try to wear down opposition to the bill by holding the Senate in endless session until those opposed to the measure quit talking.

Liz Goes On Tour Without Burton

ROME (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor went on a tour of Rome night clubs early today, but without Richard Burton.

Presumably he was at home with his wife Sybil, and their daughter, Katy, 4, in their Appian Way villa a few hundred feet from Miss Taylor's residence.

Liz, accompanied by an unidentified friend, began her pub crawl after midnight and was still going strong at 2 a.m. Then her uninvited escort of photographers fell behind her speeding Cadillac on Viale Parioli, a luxurious residential street.

Miss Taylor went from one bar to another, in several of them sitting at the same place or table she had occupied with Burton during their many nights out together after her break six weeks ago with her husband, singer Eddie Fisher.

Life Editor Originator Of Freedom Rides

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The Jackson Daily News said in an editorial Tuesday that a Negro editor for Life magazine, Earl Brown, originated the idea of sending dissatisfied Southern Negroes North.

The editorial, by Editor James Ward, criticized "the whining and grumbling by northern politicians" over the program started by the Citizens Council of Greater New Orleans and continued:

"It may be some comfort to these chronic and obviously insincere racial agitators in the North that the program will not be 100 per cent effective in removing all Negroes from the South."

Two reasons for ineffectiveness were given: 1) Negroes aren't dissatisfied, and 2) the money can't be raised.

"Ironically," the Daily News said, "it was a political minded editor of Life Magazine who probably planted the idea in the minds of the Citizens Council to originate the Freedom Bus North crusade."

The editorial said assistant editor Earl Brown of Life Magazine, a New York City Councilman on Sunday, Sept. 25, 1955, advocated the creation of a refugee committee to move all the Negroes out of Mississippi.

The editorial continued:

"New Orleans people are having more luck with the project than did Mr. Brown, who did little but shoot off his mouth.

"The Life Magazine editor was popping off at a time when the publication and other liberal voices were yelling themselves hoarse about how the Negro in the South was allegedly being mistreated.

"This was the period when most of the Negro population lost by Mississippi in the fifties were confused by the Northern propagandists they thought a race war was brewing.

"It isn't known how big is the transportation budget of the Louisiana Citizens Council but the job of sending all Negroes North is a huge undertaking that is probably better left to time than splashy newspaper headlines about free bus or train tickets.

"For instance, the 1960 census reveals 915,743 Negroes living in Mississippi. To ship them all to New York on one way bus fare would cost $35,915,440.46 without spending money."

Mrs. Kennedy Sports Modified Cleopatra Hairdo

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy is sporting a modified Cleopatra style hairdo, and the White House says it's no wig.

The First Lady showed up at the Capitol Tuesday for the annual luncheon of the Senate wives Red Cross unit. She was wearing her hair wide and bouffant at the sides, but there were no bangs. She wore a small black velvet bow in front to go with her gray and white houndstooth checked suit.

One Senate wife wondered if it might not be a wig. There also were reports when Mrs. Kennedy visited Pakistan and India that she might be taking along a wig to ease her coiffure problems.

The White House denied the presence of a wig on the trip. It denied Tuesday's wig rumor, too.

Yanks' Young Lions Begin To Roar On Western Tour

Barely Miss No-Hit Win Over Chisox

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

No doubt about it—those young Yankee lions are out to devour everything in sight.

They have the hitting, of course, and now it looks like they also have the pitching — young, powerful pitching in depth. They've opened up a 1½-game lead in the American League and they're putting on the pressure with a six-game winning streak.

The Yankees opened their first western trip of the season in Chicago Tuesday night and whipped the White Sox, 6-1, behind the combined two-hit pitching of Bill Stafford, Roland Sheldon and Marshall Bridges. The Sox didn't make a hit until the ninth when Nelson Fox singled and eventually scored on a double by Floyd Robinson.

Stafford, 23, pitched no-hit ball for five innings before retiring with a pulled thigh muscle. Sheldon, 22, continued the no-hitter until the hits by Fox and Robinson and then Bridges, 30, closed it out in whiplash fashion.

The Yankees backed their pitching trio with 10 hits, including a homer by Elston Howard and a double by Clete Boyer, to tag Juan Pizarro with his second defeat. Bobby Richardson ran his hitting streak to 16 games with two hits for the Yankees.

SENATORS WIN ONE

The Detroit Tigers beat the Kansas City A's, 3-2, in 10 innings, the Washington Senators snapped their 13-game losing streak with a 2-1 decision over the Boston Red Sox, the Los Angeles Angels defeated the Cleveland Indians, 8-6, and the Minnesota Twins downed the Baltimore Orioles, 8-3, in other AL games.

In the National League, the San Francisco Giants beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2, for their seventh straight win; the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Houston Colts, 6-4, the Cincinnati Reds whipped the New York Mets, 8-2, and the Los Angeles Dodgers topped the Chicago Cubs, 6-5, in a 16-inning marathon that lasted five hours and six minutes.

Pinch-hitter Vic Wertz singled home two runs in the 10th inning for the Tigers, negating a homer by Kansas City's Jerry Lumpe in the bottom of the inning. Jim Bunning struck out six and yielded seven hits in winning his third game by out-pitching Jerry Walker (3-1).

Pete Burnside pitched a four-hitter and struck out seven to give the Senators their first win since April 13 when the ex-Giant also won. Jim Piersall doubled in the eighth and pinch-runner Chuck Hinton scored the winning run on Jim King's sacrifice fly.

Leon Wagner drove in four runs with two homers to pace a 10-hit Los Angeles attack that brought rookie Bo Belinsky his third win without a loss. Earl Averill also homered for the Angels and Chuck Essegian, Gene Green and Al Luplow homered for Cleveland.

Camilo Pascual's nine-hit pitching and second homer of the season brought him his fourth victory for the Twins, who tagged Baltimore's Chuck Estrada with his third defeat. Jim Gentile hit his fifth homer for the Orioles.

Billy O'Dell's nine-hit pitching, Orlando Cepeda's seventh homer and several defensive lapses by the Pirates enabled the league-leading Giants to continue their streak. O'Dell did not walk a batter and struck out seven in raising his record to 3-0. Johnny Logan had four hits for Pittsburgh.

Ed Bauta's late relief pitching "saved" rookie Rav Washburn's second win after the Cardinals opened up an early 5-1 lead on Houston. Dean Stone, who had won his two previous decisions, was chased in the first inning when the Cardinals scored five runs on three walks and four hits.

Joey Jay pitched an eight-hitter and hit a three-run homer for the Reds who spoiled the Mets' first home night game before a crowd of only 5,959. Frank Thomas hit his seventh homer and Jim Hickman his third for the Mets. The win squared Jay's record at 3-3.

The Dodgers won out in the bottom of the 16th in their 5:06 struggle with the Cubs when Doug Camilli singled home Willie Davis.

RECORD BREAKER Lt. Dave Tork of U.S. Marine Corps, who cracked the world pole vault record Saturday with a vault of 16 feet two inches in a meet at Walnut, Calif., heads toward the bar during a practice session yesterday at Camp Pendleton, near Oceanside, Calif., where he is stotioned. Tork, like many other present-day vaulters, uses a glass pole which tends to whip him forward as he comes up. Tork, 27 years old and six feet tall, says his goal now is 17 feet. (AP Wirephoto)

Northeast Sets 4 Records For Northwestern Relays

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — The fabulous Styron twins led Northeast Louisiana to four new meet records and a tie for a fifth Tuesday in the 24th annual Northwestern Relays college division.

SNEAD FOR STAGG

Palmer Favorite In Champs Meet

LAS VEGAS (UPI)—Sam Snead plays for the Amos Alonzo Stagg Golf Foundation today and the rest of the all-star golfing crew take their final practice swings for the Tournament of Champions opener Thursday.

Arnold Palmer, who wins just about everything he sets his mind to, has been installed the 5-1 favorite. Gene Littler, who has won this event three times, is rated at 8-1.

But Snead will hold the spotlight today. Although defending champion, he is rated no better than 12-1 in the Tournament of Champions betting.

His score today will go into the records for the Stagg Foundation with players, using their handicaps, battling against it throughout the nation.

Slammin' Sammy got ready for his Staff Foundation round with a pair of sub-par performances—all the while complaining that his putting was betraying his whole game.

"I've lost the stroke I had when I won this tournament last year," he said. "I can't hit two putts alike—even if I know the roll of the green. I pull one, then push the next. Don't know what's wrong."

The star-studded field of 28, largest in the 10-year history of this most exclusive of all golf events, has been here most of the week testing the long, flat Desert Inn Country Club course which measures 7,048 yards and has narrow fairways.

The betting marts have Doug Ford, Jay Hebert, Phil Rodgers and Doug Sanders rated at 12-1 with Snead. But little Jerry Barber, who won here two years ago, is a fat 20-1, along with Tommy Jacobs, Don January, Billy Maxwell, Bo Winninger and Cary Middlecoff.

Northeast, Delta State In Double Bill Here Today

Coach Boo Ferris' Delta State baseball club is after revenge here today, meeting Northeast Louisiana State in a double header on the Ouachita Parish High diamond, beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

The Indians of Coach George Luffey socked the Statesmen twice at Cleveland, Miss., recently by identical 7-2 scores.

The Statesmen move in with an attack led by Chester Norris, a .377 batter who will be the only player on the field today with a better than .300 average.

Shortstop Phil Petras and outfielder-pitcher Bob Groves are Northeast's bat leaders with matching .289 averages.

Washouts Jam Tech's Schedule

RUSTON, La. (Special — Louisiana Tech and U. of Southwestern have rescheduled their postponed baseball game of last Saturday for May 10. A double header is on tap.

The Bulldog schedule has been shuffled by rains and the new dates, along with the regular ones, are jamming a card that calls for a Northeast double header here Saturday, Northwestern double at Natchitoches Monday, and a Southeastern double here May 8.

BASTROP LANDS 4

Causey, Duncan Triple-A Stars

Pitcher Lynn Causey of Ouachita of Monroe was a unanimous choice, Coach Bob Brasher of the Bastrop Rams was named "coach of the year," and Brasher's district champion Rams won four positions on the 15-player all-district 1-AAA baseball squad announced today.

Bastrop's four all - star players are pitcher David Whitworth, third baseman Rickey Head (born the day his dad, Ed Head, was pitching a no-hitter for the old Brooklyn Dodgers), catcher Don Cox, and outfielder James Chunn.

Infielder Billy Duncan, West Monroe, joined Causey, brother of the Kansas City Athletics' Wayne Causey, as the only Twin Cities players on the mythical team.

The Fair Park Indians of Shreveport, runners-up to Bastrop for the district championship, also placed four players — pitcher Tommy Chiles, catcher Phillip Johnson, outfielder Joe Moore, and utility infielder Franklin Neel.

Bossier High of Bossier City and Woodlawn of Shreveport each landed two positions, and Byrd of Shreveport came up with only one all - star.

Byrd's selection was infielder Alton Thomas while Bossier placed second baseman Don Maples and shortstop Ray Shewmake, and Woodlawn produced first baseman Jon Pat Stephenson and utility infielder Ronnie Mercer.

Whitworth posted a 6-0 season, and Causey won seven while losing only one.

SPLIT DISTRICT

District 1-AAA baseball coaches have voted to split their league into East and West divisions for the 1963 campaign with division winners meeting in a series for the championship.

Bastrop, Ouachita and West Monroe will comprise the East, while Byrd, Fair Park and Woodlawn of Shreveport and Bossier will contend in the West.

Hornets Will Face Terriers In 'A' Finals

The Rayville Hornets and the St. Francis de Sales Terriers of Houma will meet Friday to decide the Louisiana Class A high school baseball championship.

The finalists reached their station in the title race yesterday when the Hornets turned in their first errorless performance of the season to eliminate Gonzales, 6-4, and St. Francis passed its semi-final test in a scoring duel with Farmerville, 15 to 11.

Charlie Gammill and Aubrey Quimby shared Rayville pitching, holding Gonzales to six hits, each allowing three, but five Gonzales errors against Rayville's perfect play afield was the big difference.

Larry McGowan and Jim Kennedy led Rayville batting, each socking a double. McGowan's two-baser knocked in two runs.

Leading Gonzales batter was Bobby Lagavine with two hits, one a sixth inning homer.

Al Marshive was the big gun in St. Francis' march past Farmerville, slugging three for four, including two home runs, batting in four runs and scoring three. His homers highlighted a six-run second inning and a three - run fourth inning. The Terriers had also bunched six in the third.

Farmerville got only three hits, all of them off Barry Domangue who pitched in the fifth inning between starting and finishing rules by Harold Haydel.

Although the Farmers couldn't get a hit off Haydel, they romped to four runs in the second inning of their game at Houma. After turning the mound over to Domangue in the fifth, Haydel was hustled back into service when the Farmers exploded for a seven-run inning in that frame.

Fraley Hates Chalk Horses, Goes Out On Limb For Prego

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Webster defines a "tout" as one who "gives a tip on a horse race," so Fearless Fraley pleads guilty to the charge today by giving you Saturday's winner of the Kentucky Derby.

Most touts have a remarkable "can't miss" system. In, let's say, a 12-horse race, they'll give a different horse to each of 12 "customers."

But, as a long-time member of the knock-down-the-favorite club, I've got to stick my neck out with a late-running colt named Prego.

You must understand, first, that this is one week in the year when every typewriter termite in the business becomes a horse race expert. If you don't make a selection, you get run right out of the franchise. And I am constitutionally opposed to picking what are known as "chalk" horses.

WIND UP BROKE

That, they tell me, means a favorite. Now if you hang around this horse-racing dodge all year you not only wind up a qualified expert but you also wind up extremely broke. Yet it has its compensations at a time like this. By investment, the regular patrons of the pony press boxes have learned to talk in a peculiar jargon which carries, if not winning tickets, a certain tone of authority.

"Ridan is ready," one will say. "He went nine panels to win the Blue Grass and worked the true Derby distance in 2:01 which shades Whirlaway's record by a bit of change."

"Sir Gaylord," counters another, "proved in the seven-panel Stepping Stone that he was back from that inflamed Ipswich."

Proving that they can't even agree on which of those two chalk horses ought to pick up the marbles, and if I misquoted them it's only because I don't know a strained stifle from a plastered pastern.

CAN REALLY RUN

I don't know whether Jesse Owens was out of Columbus by Route 66, either, but I know the feller could really run. Which, in an extended bit of galloping such as the Derby, where for the first time the three-year-old colts are going a mile and a quarter, I want the oatburner who is toting my two bucks to be able to do.

And I want him to be doing it in the late innings when they ankle down toward where the final picture is to be taken.

In addition to being a patsy for a late charging hay consumer as well as one who will return better than bank interest, it is only fair to concede that old Fearless has gone for the horse collar on more than several occasions.

"Out," Webster also adds, is Scots for "a slight illness," which may account for some of my past choices. Like, say, Our Dad. I was sentimental enough to overlook the fact that he had everything it required to finish 15th. The price was right on Countermand, who ran a strong 17th on another occasion. And, liking fast closers, I was a little short with Cold Command, who moved up like lightning—from 11th to ninth.

WINNERS TOO

Having taken care of the critics, let me add with my usual modesty that I selected Count Turf, who won at 14-1 in 1951. You didn't have to bring it up, but my last winner before that was Aristides in 1875.

Anyhow, I see it finishing Prego, Donut King and Ridan in that order.

In Italy, when you say "Thank you," the answer usually is "Prego." Translated loosely, that means "It is nothing." I hope he isn't. But even that prospect leaves me definitely unperturbed. It's your money.

LITTLE BOYS BASEBALL

Name Changing Meeting Called

NORTH CHARLESTON, S. C. (Special)—A committee of national board members will meet Saturday at Canton, Miss., for the purpose of officially changing the name of Little Boys Baseball for the 1962 season.

President Matt Govak of Little Boys Baseball announced here that he and Danny Jones, national commissioner, will attend the committee meeting.

Meeting at Canton with Govak and Jones will be Nick Senter, Lookout Mountain, Tenn.; J. W. McLemore and W. E. "Frenchie" Marioneaux, Winnsboro, La.; J. Newton Jones, Natchez, Miss.; Albert Case, Crosby, Miss.; Ed Ligon, Clarksdale, Miss.; Floyd Johnson, Yazoo City, Miss.; and state directors Gene Head, Canton, Miss., and Marvin Smith, West Monroe, La.

The name change for Little Boys is necessitated by legal action concluded a few months ago with a ruling that the name "Little Boys League" is an infringement of the copyright name "Little League" and that its name should be changed. Little Boys and Little League are different baseball programs for boys of the same age group.

Over 350 leagues and 1,805 teams are expected to operate in the youth baseball program of the southern states this summer.

Climax of the 1962 season will be the Dixie World Series scheduled for West Monroe, La., August 20-25.

Deadline for franchise applications was May 1, according to Commissioner Jones, who said all leagues filing applications after the May 1 deadline will have to be approved by the state director of the representative state before being eligible for a franchise.

The May 1 deadline requirement applies to all leagues, old and new, and leagues not registered on May 1 lose their right to vote in the national board of directors election on May 15.

Future Bright For Mer Rouge Girls' Champs

MER ROUGE, La. (Special)—Softball rivals of Mer Rouge High School have been served their warnings for the next two or three years.

With a team composed entirely of eighth and ninth graders, and playing its first softball season, the Mer Rouge girls claimed the north Louisiana high school championship last weekend by defeating Bonita, 3-2, in the finals of the North Louisiana Rally Association's tournament at Ruston.

Judy Clark, who is quite a basketball figure during the cage season, was the star of the tournament for Mer Rouge. Her one-hit pitching beat Bonita after a three-hit job that stopped Downsville, 9-8. Mer Rouge had also taken an early forfeit from Weston.

Miss Clark also was a batting star of the Bonita and Downsville games. She, along with Diane Hendershot, hit homers against Downsville, each with runners aboard. Sawyer, the Bonita pitcher, allowed only two hits in the finals, but both were doubles by Clark and Violet Pollard.

H. A. Sisson, the Mer Rouge coach, figures that with his entire team around for the next three years, the future should look pretty good.

Members of the Mer Rouge team include Betty Hawkins, Cindy Parker, Amanda Hendershot, Susan Carter, Peggy Bearden, Nancy Akers, and Beverly Victory.

Bastrop, Bolton Triple-A Series On Again Today

BASTROP, La. (Special) — The once-delayed start of the Bastrop-Bolton bi-district series in triple-A championship eliminations is scheduled for this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at Bastrop. Rain postponed the meeting here Monday night.

Coach Bob Brasher will send Floyd Murry to the mound against the Bears this afternoon with support of Scotty Rawls, shortstop; Rickey Head, third base; James Chunn, left field; Don Cox, catcher; David Whitworth, first base; Pete Perot, right field; Ed Worley, second base; and Barry Simpson, center field.

The best-of-three series will be resumed Friday at Alexandria with a possible double header.

HEAD COACH of the Chicago Cubs is Lou Klein, above, yesterday named to replace Elvin Tappe at the top of the club's 10-coach faculty board. (AP Wirephoto)

Vidalia's 79 Points Good At Mangham

MANGHAM, La. (Special) — The Vidalia Vikings, surprise of Class B football last fall, were the surprise of the Mangham Invitational Track and Field show last night, sweeping to victory with 79 points.

The once-postponed meet was run on a track soggy from Monday night's rain, but the Vikings showed a liking for the soft footing in romping to victory.

5 STRAIGHT GO ROUTE

Stingy Pitchers Boosting Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Manager Alvin Dark can't ask for better pitching than his San Francisco starters have been given him—five straight winning performances with the starters going the route each time.

Parlayed with the club's vaunted power hitting, the stingy pitching has boosted the Giants 1½ games in front of the National League and a victory today would send the winning streak to eight games—longest since the club moved west in 1958.

"We didn't have that many straight complete games last year," Dark observed after Billy O'Dell set down the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2 Tuesday night.

In only two games this season have the Giant hitters failed to connect for at least one home run and in the latest victory it was Orlando Cepeda crashing his seventh of the season—a 380-foot shot over the right field fence.

Today Dark started his five-pitcher rotation around again with right-hander Juan Marichal facing Earl Francis of the Pirates.

Marichal started the complete game series last Saturday when he beat the Cubs 11-2. Jack Sanford and Billy Pierce followed with 7-0 and 6-0 shutouts on Sunday. Then Gaylord Perry whipped the Pirates 4-1 before O'Dell won his third game of the season Tuesday night.

All this with Mike McCormick, the star southpaw of the staff, still out with a shoulder that refuses to loosen. "I wouldn't think of changing it now," Dark declared.

Cepeda and Willie Mays each now have seven homers to lead the power department with catcher Ed Bailey at six.

The Giants didn't really need Orlando's big blast in the third inning since they'd scored three in the second off starter and loser Bob Veale.

The Dog Ordinance!

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY

It is my honest opinion that the recent dog control program in West Monroe has been so poorly handled that it would take a master diplomat to unravel the problem that has developed.

The original provisions in the ordinance were so severe it could not humanely be enforced. Yet those who do not care for dogs deserve protection of their rights.

I don't claim to be a master diplomat capable of healing all the hurt feelings that have been caused, but if I am elected Mayor of West Monroe on May 12th., I want to assure every interested citizen that I will lead positive action designed to solve the problem.

It appears to me that the best solution would be an honest recognition of the rights and feelings of everyone. If the situation is found to have developed beyond solution on this basis, I would call for a public vote and give the people an opportunity to express approval or disapproval by a majority preference.

St. Louis, 'Frisco Impress Defending Cincinnati Most

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—After looking over the top contenders in the National League, the manager of the defending champion Cincinnati Reds is most impressed by St. Louis and San Francisco.

"Those Cardinals have real speed," Fred Hutchinson, the Reds' manager, said before today's game with the New York Mets.

"Everybody in the infield can scoot.

"Bill White, Julian Javier, Julio Gotay and Ken Boyer, plus that guy Curt Flood in center field.

"And St. Louis has good solid pitching, too. They look real tough. They first (base) to third you to death.

"The Giants looked real good against us. Orlando Cepeda and Harvey Kuenn are off to good starts and Willie Mays is hitting those home runs. Felipe Alou seems to have become a real top flight player."

Hutch said he hadn't seen Chicago or Houston in the first three weeks of the season.

"You can see the effect of those new teams already," he said. "Everybody's bench seems to be thinner."

As for the Reds, who are deep in the second division, Hutch said: "We have been playing bad ball defensively, (25 errors in the first 15 games), both in the infield and the outfield and our secondary pitching has been bad. Especially the middle inning relief men.

"Sure we got off bad last year, too. I think we were 5-10 last year at this time but then we won nine straight. If I knew we were going to win nine straight now I wouldn't be worried.

"Frank Robinson isn't hitting. Neither is either one of our second basemen or our shortstop. Vada Pinson and Wally Post have been our best hitters. The catcher (John Edwards) has been doing all right and so have Eddie Kasko and Gordy Coleman.

"We are like Milwaukee. You know we are going to score some runs. It is just a question of getting started.

"Our starting pitchers — Bob Purkey, Jim O'Toole and Joey Jay—have been doing all right but the second men haven't helped much."

Midshipmen Claim Best College Rifle

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Michael P. Capture, a Naval Academy Midshipman from Teaneck, N.J., is the nation's best collegiate rifle shooter, and Oregon State University is the team champion for 1962.

Those results were announced Tuesday by the National Rifle Association of America, which compiled the bullseyes and near-misses of 1,565 collegiate marksmen from 355 universities and colleges.

This was a "telegraphic" meet in which all the participants forwarded their results to the association for compilation and determination of champions.

Capture won the individual title in close competition with Charles Rowan of West Virginia and David Ross of Yale. All finished with 294 out of a possible 300 but Capture had the best score for the more difficult standing position. He had 97 out of 100 standing while Rowan had 96 and Ross 95.

The four members of Oregon's winning team were Edward Huasafus, 290 of 300; Allen Bates, 292; Alan Dapp, 291, and Pat Kaufman, 297.

As a team, Oregon State shot a score of 1,170 of a possible 1,200 points.

The Naval Academy finished second with a total of 1,159 points; the University of California was third with 1,157, followed by West Virginia, the defending champion, with 1,156 and the U.S. Military Academy with 1,154.

Lucas Discusses Contract With Cleveland Five

CLEVELAND (AP)— Jerry Lucas, Ohio State's three-time All America basketball player, discussed a possible contract with officials of the Cleveland Pipers of the American Basketball League Tuesday. He and his wife spent the rest of the day touring Cleveland, including stops at prospective apartments.

"I'd say it's like no other offer which has been presented to an athlete," said Piper President George Steinbrenner. "I believe Jerry is very interested.

Steinbrenner said the offer was a combined business and basketball proposition. The Cnicinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association reportedly have offered Lucas a $100,000 3-year contract and an automobile.

16 STARTERS LIKELY

Gaylord, Ridan Still Favorites

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The probable starting field for Saturday's $125,000-added Kentucky Derby swelled to at least 16 today but Sir Gaylord and Ridan remained the firm choices to make a two-horce race of the 88th running of the blue ribbon classic for 3-year-olds at Churchill Downs.

Out of Tuesday's so-so Derby Trial came three fairly definite starters, in the words of their trainers, and one faint "maybe."

The fairly definites are T. A. Grissom's Roman Line, who won the mile test by six lengths in the fair time of 1:37 1-5 on a sloppy track; Sharp Count from the Reverie Knoll Farm, who was third, beaten 6¾ lengths, and Neil S. McCarthy's Royal Attack, the Santa Anita Derby winner, who ran a disappointing fourth.

There is one condition of Royal Attack's starting. Trainer Buddy Hirsch said the track must be fast.

The maybe came from Steve Di Mauri, who trains Mister Pitt for the Golden Triangle Stable. Mister Pitt showed a burst of early speed in the Trial, then wound up last.

Meantime, trainer Casey Hayes said that the name of C. T. Chenery's great filly, Cicada, wound be dropped into the entry box Thursday along with stable mate Sir Gaylord.

"We'll enter both but only one will run," said Hayes, adding that Cicada would be entered so the owner of the Meadow Stable wouldn't be left empty handed if something should happen to Sir Gaylord.

It costs $250 to enter a horse and another $1,250 to start. Cicada also is eligible for Friday's $35,000-added Kentucky Oaks, on which she appears to have a lock.

With 18 entries and 16 starters, the Derby will gross $163,400 with the winner picking up $120,900. Post time is 4:30 p.m. EST. Nation-wide television time (CBS) is 4-4:45 p.m.

Hayes and Leroy Jilley, trainer of Ridan, appeared confident.

Both Sir Gaylord and Ridan wound up their heavy work last week with victories and went on to sensational workouts.

The early odds held Sir Gaylord at 8-5 and Ridan at 5-2. Sunrise County was the third choice at 8-1 followed by Admiral's Voyage at 10-1 and Sir Ribot at 12-1.

Family, Friends Will Ask Moss To Quit Racing

LONDON (UPI)—Stirling Moss will be advised by family and friends to give up auto racing as a result of his track smash-up Easter Monday.

The 32-year-old driver is slowly regaining consciousness at Atkinson Morley Hospital, Wimbledon, where a bulletin said his "periods of consciousness are increasing in length."

His friend and racing sponsor, Rob Walker, said Tuesday night he heard Moss muttering lap speeds and racing jargon and believes this indicates the driver's determination to get back on the track.

"I am certain he will race again," Walker said. "But if he asks me what to do, I shall tell him to retire."

Moss's parents also have said they intend to ask their son to quit the track.

"I have never asked him before," Mrs. Moss said. "But I think I shall when he recovers sufficiently."

Cholesterol In Body Hard To Fathom

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Compare a penguin egg with a chicken egg, said a medical scientist. They contain the same amount of cholesterol. But if you eat the penguin egg instead of the chicken egg it will elevate your blood cholesterol level much less.

However, Prof. Arthur Grollman was not advocating a switch from chicken eggs to penguin eggs on the American breakfast table. He was using this as an example of how little, comparatively speaking, medical science knows about what the human body does with cholesterol.

Addressing medical men in general, Dr. Grollman said:

"We really should avoid giving patients the impression that cholesterol alone is the answer to the problem of atherosclerosis. Clearly it is not. We do not need to encourage the prevailing air of panic about cholesterol."

Certainly medical men should urge people to avoid excesses of fats in their daily meals, he said. But people should be urged to avoid excesses of anything else. And certainly the fat intake should be restricted for people those blood cholesterol levels are high.

Nevertheless, "all of the facts about cholesterol and atherosclerosis are not in yet," he continued. "Until they are, we really can help our patients most just by encouraging ordinary discretion."

Grossman is professor and chairman of the Department of Experimental Medicine at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School and author of a number of standard medical science text books. In the technical journal, "Consultant," he was distressed that cholesterol has come to be considered an unalloyed evil.

That's very far from the truth. The fact is it is vital to normal body function, and in many ways. It occurs in every body cell. Among its many important services it makes the body waterproof—by preventing water from seeping through the surface cells.

Even if cholesterol was entirely excluded from the diet, the human body would have it because it makes it. "All body cells are capable of synthesizing cholesterol from the readily available 2-carbon acetate which is derived from carbohydrate, fat and protein," he added.

The liver is the important source of body-made cholesterol, of course, but even the walls of the arteries can make it. This means, he continued, that the cholesterol which circulates in the blood doesn't have to be the cholesterol which is deposited in artery-linings and is blamed for artery-hardening or atherosclerosis.

He was critical of many of the experiements which have indicted dietary cholesterol in artery-hardening. For one thing, experimental results in animals cannot be translated directly to people. For another, if you experiment with varying levels of cholesterol in human diets, you have to hold all other elements of the diets constant. In the main that hasn't been done.

Controlling blood cholestrol levels by varying the intake of dietary cholesterol "is not that simple," he said. "Cholesterol intake alone does not determine the level of serum cholesterol or necessarily affect the deposit of cholesterol in atheromata."

Tea Given To Announce Engagemen Of Wisner Bride-Elect, Miss Kiper

The engagement of Miss Sue Ann Kiper of Wisner and Leonard Ponder o Shreveport was announced at a tea Saturday, April 28, at the plantation home o the Rupert Scotts in Wisner. Mrs. T. H. Scott of Monroe and Mrs. Rupert Scot were co-hostesses on the occasion.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Asa Kiper of Wisne and the parents of the prospective groo m are Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Ponder of Plea ant Hill. The couple will wed June 30 in the First Baptist Church of Wisner.

Wearing a yellow embroidered batiste shirtwaist model with matching shoes and a brown and yellow orchid, Miss Kiper received with her mother and hostesses.

The mantel held a silver bowl of magnolia blossoms at one end, and at the other end was a pair of Italian pottery doves holding a white satin ribbon lettered in silver glitter, "Sue Ann and Len, June 30." A tiered table at the picture window held a miniature fountain in which floated nosegays of pale pink roses.

Presiding over the guest book on the spacious porch were the two grandmothers of the bride-elect, Mrs. E. R. Kiper and Mrs. W. E. Evans. The bride's book was placed on a white wicker desk with a silver candelabrum of calla lilies and silver bells caught with white satin ribbon.

In the hall, a white compote of calla lilies graced the entrance. The tea table was overlaid with an Italian cutwork cloth and centered with a silver epergne holding pink stock and roses with tall twisted pink tapers. The tea napkins bore the names of the couple and wedding date.

Alternating at the punch bowl were Mrs. Rufus Knight of Sicily Island and Mrs. Ralph Kiper of Shreveport, aunts of the honoree. Miss Charlotte Luno, Kittye Kiper, and Kathleen Adams assisted as tea girls.

More than one hundred guests called during the party hours.

Questions And Answers About Women's Fashions

By FLORENCE DE SANTIS

Q My daughter is to be married at a formal evening wedding, with the men of the wedding party wearing full dress. I bought a light blue chiffon dress with lace jacket. Would a picture hat be suitable, such as the bridesmaids are wearing? What other accessory advice can you give me?

A The hat can be brimmed, but should look like a garden party hat. It could be a chiffon turban in shades of blue, or a floral toque in deeper blue. Shoes could either match dress, or be deeper blue to match hat, and in plain pump style. Bag can be in matching or white lace, beaded, or silk. Wear white gloves in length to meet sleeves of jacket.

Q What color hat would you suggest for an outfit of bone coat, pale green suit with overblouse mingling pinks, oranges and greens? My handbag is bone, shoes multicolor stripes on bone. Should gloves match hat or bag, or be white?

A On paper, too many colors and themes seem to be included in this outfit. Why striped shoes? Plain bone would be better, as stripes sound too much with that print overblouse. With plain bone pumps, bag and gloves, your hat can then pick up any color in the suit or blouse that you like.

Q I am to be married for the second time. What should I choose for a simple church wedding? I will live at a Colorado ski lodge, where my new husband will be an instructor. What kind of clothes will I need there?

A For a second marriage, a street-length dress or jacket costume is worn. It can be in sheath or full-skirt style, in any color you prefer except white or dark shades. Material can be crepe, peau de soie, silk, chiffon.

At the lodge, a conservative sportswear look, made up of coordinated separates, is best to start with. Don't take too much, as it is better to wait and see what you will want to acquire there.

Q I was greatly interested in your recent comments on dressing for balls such as the New Orleans Mardi Gras. I attended this event, taking a long gown, as you advised, to go with my husband's full-dress suit. But I found about one-half of the women wearing short gowns, even some cocktail types. Gloves, too, weren't always long or kid.

A I am the least hidebound person, I hope, in fashion, but I still feel that full dress for men means full dress for women. Why should he bother if she doesn't? And why have a gala ball if the guests don't dress for it? In my advice, I used the word "should," knowing full well how standards of dress often aren't what they should be today.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: As a disinterested third party, your advice is needed. My brother's wife is running around and everyone in our little town knows it but him. She uses all sorts of lame excuses to get out of the house "for an hour" and comes in at midnight with more lies. My brother works 12 hours a day trying to provide for her and their three children. She sleeps till noon and lets the children fend for themselves. The house is a mess. She dresses like a street-walker and her children look like war orphans. Would you advise me to give her enough rope to hang herself? Or should I tell my brother? We are decent people and everyone is talking.
"G"

DEAR "G.": It would be pretty hard for a man not to be aware that his wife dresses like a "street-walker" and his children look like "war orphans." If your brother really is having the wool pulled over his eyes — don't be sheepish. Tell him!

DEAR ABBY: You said, "Just because there's chrome on the dome doesn't mean there is no power under the hood." Will you please tell me how YOU know?
I KNOW

DEAR I: Some of my best friends are mechanics.

DEAR ABBY: If a baby-sitter is asked to come to sit from 7:00 p.m. until midnight, what do you think about this situation? I arrived promptly at seven. The parents were nowhere near ready to leave the house. At eight, they left, saying, "Well, that's one hour less of your time — sorry." They came back at a quarter one — exactly 45 minutes later than they promised — saying, "Sorry, we're a few minutes late, ha ha." Then I got paid for four hours. What would YOU do?
OVERWORKED AND UNDERPAID

DEAR O. AND U.: I would tell them they owed me for five hours and 45 minutes and no "ha ha" about it.

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with a nice fellow and he has asked me to marry him. I would like to have a big church wedding and wear a white gown and veil, and have a large reception. I had a child. A few in the family know about it. Should I tell my future husband about it? I gave the baby up for adoption. I was only 15 at the time and I am 19 now.
SECRET KEPT

DEAR SECRET: Do not make a mockery of a large wedding with a gown and veil. And by all means, TELL your future husband.

Freshmen Today Found Almost Adult

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—The typical college freshman has a psychological makeup much like that of an authoritarian adult, reports Nevitt Sanford, a professor at Stanford University.

"The freshman inhibits impulse by being morally strict with himself and others," Sanford said. "He is ready to meet stiff requirements, to work hard, to conform with what he takes to be the prevailing standards of behavior and he is inclined to be somewhat intolerant of those who do not.

"An element of perfectionism, of striving for purity of thought and action is characteristic of the freshman. He needs, and finds, moral heroes, and is likely to demand that they be perfect. He is rather unprepared for the discovery that his idols have feet of clay, or, at any rate, have some human weaknesses."

Sanford's comments were in "The American College," a 1,000-page study which he edited. He is a professor of psychology and education, and director of the Institute for the Study of Human Problems at Stanford.

He said one of the hardest things about growing up in contemporary America is that a young person discovers some of the things that are wrong with the world just when he most needs models of private and public virtue.

"If the young person is not to remain in an authoritarian stage of development, he must learn to see things as they are, develop an articulate individual power of judgment, and become able to criticize what he judges to be bad," Sanford said.

The freshman also is unsure of his worth, Sanford said, and thus vulnerable to the opinions of others.

"In this situation it is often a good thing that he is given academic grades, and is told about the results of tests of ability and achievement.

"Bad news may be better than no news; better, that is, than uncertainty or his gloomy imaginings."

What Is Best To Use On Countertops

What's the most desirable material to use on kitchen countertops and backsplashes?

All the countertop materials now being marketed are eye-catching — and almost equally attractive — when they are first seen in new homes. However, their equality of appeal quickly ends once they are subjected to the rough treatment that the kitchen gets each day.

Any homemaker can quickly prove this with two simple experiments. First take a sizzling frying pan or a hot iron and place it on a tile surface. The result: no damage. Then take the sharpest knife you can find and slice any food directly atop the tile. Once again, no damage will occur.

But don't try these experiments on counters surfaced with most other materials.

That it's waterproof and can't be stained are further indications of tile's durability — and reasons why it's the ideal material for kitchen counters and backsplashes, as well as for bathroom floors and walls. Durability means long-range economy and very likely a higher F. H. A. appraisal.

Real tile now comes in a wider variety of colors, sizes and shapes than ever before and can either set the pattern for your decor, or blend in with other decorating plans. New sealing materials have made grout lines stronger and easier to clean than ever.

NATO WARNED

Rusk Sees No Letup In Tension

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, arriving here for a North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting, told newsmen today he saw no prospect of immediate relaxation of world tensions.

"For the immediate future I wish I could hold out a prospect for relaxation but I cannot," Rusk said in an airport statement.

But he said the tide of freedom "is in the long term indeed irresistible as long as there are those who will work and sacrifice for that cause."

He praised Greece which, he said, has an especially warm place in the hearts of Americans because of its ancient heritage and the dedication of its people in liberty.

Foreign and defense ministers from the nations of NATO will make one of their periodic appraisals of NATO policies, touching on the Berlin situation, nuclear power and East-West relations, in sessions here.

Foremost among the problems facing the 15 nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was the delicate question of control of nuclear weapons, now essentially in the hands of the United States.

U.S. officials expect no agreement to emerge on the various proposals for a NATO strike force armed with American nuclear weapons. They hope some progress will be made.

The chief point at issue is the question of conditions under which the nuclear weapons would be ordered into action and what veto the allies would have over the firing orders.

Voice Of Broadway

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Miss Midnight's Notebook: George Burns and Gracie Allen are due for some good news. Steve Crane's estranged wife, Helen, tells Florida friends she's still in love with Steve and has changed her mind about marrying Ronnie Burns. If she means it, George and Gracie will be delighted; they were against the match from the beginning . . . Guess who Tony Curtis has cast as his leading lady in "Monsieur Cognac." Christine Kauffman? Right! You win the cigar . . . Joey Bishop is expected to be the first to pull out of the "comedians' community" in Englewood, N. J. His wife misses him when he's away, so she'd like to move the whole family to Hollywood and settle there . . . A near - fatal accident at an East Side boite the other night may result in two hefty lawsuits unless the injured party is willing to settle out of court.

Broadway hears that the latest combine to put in a bid for the Copacabana consists of a famous sporting figure, Skinny D'Amato, and a crooner . . . Loew's Theatres, after all these years, will vacate 1540 Broadway. It will become the MGM building . . . The more releases United Artists sends out about Robert Stroud and his legal problems, the more they make "The Birdman of Alcatraz" sound like a crashing bore. It seems as if every criminal who can write a book or raise canaries suddenly becomes intriguing to the movie colony. We've been through all this with Caryl Chessman, even more so. When is Marlon Brando going to picket for Stroud's release and make it a hot issue?

Ingmar Bergman, Sweden's famous director, ran into trouble filming his latest, "The Well Loved," because Swedish railroads refused to rent the sleeping car he wanted as the setting for the production's big love scene. The railroad executives felt it would be negative propaganda for their business. (Hey, Ingmar! Didn't you ever hear of building a railroad car on a sound set and making it look just like the real thing?) a town called Hollywood has been doing that for years. And even in Rome they built a whole new Forum, because what's left of the original is rather beat-up, and they needed something that looked like the original.

Oh come on now, everybody! The Pavillon Set — and they're all so chic — insist that Porfirio Rubirosa has invented a love potion made from the bark of a tree. Porfirio doesn't need any potions, he just has to walk into a room . . . Sophia Loren was hurt because Anna Magnani didn't call to congratulate her on winning the Academy Award, but found compensation in the fact that Gina Lollobrigida actually became ill and had to take to her bed when she heard Sophia had copped the Oscar. There's never been much love lost between those two.

The Yul Brynners are expecting a baby in the fall . . . Judy Garland, after years of hockeying with the Internal Revenue boys and her personal financial problems, is now happily solvent. She may have a million in the bank within the next two years . . . Art Ford will be back in the TV arena come autumn, with a jazz - and - conversation show titled "Coffee Time." The format will spotlight new talent in the music world but Art has already chosen two regulars for the program: pianists Ronnie Brown and Stanley Paul.

Theatre marquees are getting livelier and livelier. One in Brooklyn has been proclaiming 'Eddie Fisher's Rival, Richard Burton, in 'Look Back in Anger.'" . . . And speaking of that situation, "Cleopatra" is now on its third set of public relations men . . . Quiz question: How come some of the newspaper photos of Liz Taylor after Burton's car had an accident near their villas showed her with a bloody bruise under her right eye and across her nose, while others — in the same costume, at the same scene — portrayed her with a flawless complexion? It would indicate that some of the boys are retouching, one way or the other . . . Singer Anita O'Day, who wings into the Village Vanguard for a three-week stay, is excited about her new Verbe album, which she cut with vibes star Cal Tjader. Everyone who's heard it says it's the best Anita has done yet — which really is going some . . . The Italian government is being strict with actor Marcello Mastroianni and producer Dino di Laurentiis about their income tax problems . . . Burlesque may be returning to Broadway, but they won't be calling it by that unpopular name. The owners of a big nightclub are conferring with a producer who knows all about that sort of thing and the result, if the plans materialize, will be a fall show featuring comedy skits and girlie numbers that would have made the late Mayor LaGuardia blow his stack.

Gives Up Search

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army has officially given up hope of finding the 93 troops, 3 Vietnamese and 11 crew members aboard a U.S. plane that crashed in the Pacific March 16.

"The most extensive sea and air search in the history of trans-Pacific flight failed to locate any trace of the Flying Tiger Line Constellation, its crew or its passengers," the Army said Tuesday.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED

Charge Thompson In Bonita Wreck

BASTROP (Special) — N. L. Thompson, 54-year-old Wilmot, Ark., man involved in a flaming two - car collision Sunday which killed four near Bonita, is being officially charged on three counts by Morehouse Parish authorities.

Thompson, who reportedly left the scene of the accident by hitch-hiking back into Arkansas, is charged with negligent homicide, operating a motor vehicle upon a highway while under the influence of intoxicating beverages and criminal neglect, Morehouse Parish Sheriff E. L. Hinton said Tuesday.

Bail was set at $4,000.

Joe R. White, assistant district attorney of Morehouse Parish, filed the charges against Thompson who is accused of ramming a Texas car from the rear. Thompson's car and that of the vacationing Texas family burned up after the collision.

White said Thompson hitchhiked to Wilmot after the accident and refused extradition to peace officers who questioned him at his home.

Extradition proceedings, said White, will be launched against Thompson if he posts bond in Arkansas and refuses to appear in Louisiana voluntarily.

Killed were Paul Richard Mullins, 39; his wife, Ruby, 28, and their two children, Louis E., 7, and Paul Jean, 6, of Houston, Tex.

The Mullins family was en route to Greenville, Miss., when their car was rammed. The gas tank exploded upon impact and the car burst into flames.

Mrs. Burton Regrets Talk About Affair

ROME (AP)—Richard Burton's blonde wife, Sybil, flew home to London today saying she regretted all the talk about an affair between her husband and Elizabeth Taylor "for the sake of our children."

Burton accompanied his wife to the airport and kissed her goodby.

She told newsmen a few moments later: "I'm happy. I plan to come back to Rome to be with my husband again about the middle of next week."

Asked if she was tolerant of reports about her husband and Miss Taylor she replied: "No. I'm sorry—for the sake of our children."

Miss Taylor had gone on a tour of night clubs early today without Burton.

Mrs. Burton had been in Rome since Easter. She arrived while her actor husband was spending a long holiday weekend with Miss Taylor at a seaside resort 80 miles north of Rome.

Mrs. Burton was asked whether on her next visit here she would remain until Burton had finished his work in the film in which he costars with Miss Taylor.

"I hope so," she said. "He'll be working here until the second week in July. Then he will go to Egypt for two weeks filming."

Asked why she was returning to London, she said: "Katy has to return to school tomorrow, she had only a few days of special leave."

Dyer Continues Attack On Davis

BATON ROUGE (AP) — State Rep. Jack Dyer told Louisiana State University Democrats Tuesday night Louisiana is not keeping up with other Southern states in industrial development because of the Davis administration.

Dyer called the present state government "the sorriest governor and state administration in the history of this or any other state."

The Department of Commerce and Industry was sited by Dyer as an example of what he called "The blind leading the blind." "Ridiculous appointments" by the governor, Dyer said, "has made a mockery" of the efforts of the Department of Commerce and Industry to attract new industry.

Because fo the present financial status of the state industry hesitates to come to Louisiana, Dyer said.

Life Sentence Is Rescinded By Korean Leader

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—South Korean strongman Gen. Chung-hee Park today quashed a sentence of life imprisonment against the ruling military junta's former front man, Lt. Gen. Chang Do-young.

Park dismissed charges that Chang had tried to obstruct the military coup which overthrew the parliamentary government last May 16 and then tried to take full control of the junta.

Chang, army chief of staff at the time of the coup, became premier and chairman of the junta after the coup but Park, the architect of the coup, was the real power.

Chang was ousted last July and arrested. A junta revolutionary court sentenced him to death on Jan. 10, but an appellate court reduced the sentence to life imprisonment on March 10.

Park also dismissed the charges against four other members of the original military government who were convicted with Chang.

Claim Soviets Lost Interest In Disarming

GENEVA (AP)—British Minister of State Joseph Godber told the 17-nation disarmament conference today the Soviet attitude indicates that the Soviet Union has lost interest in concluding a world disarmament treaty.

Godber said Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin has failed either to produce realistic proposals of his own or to show any interest in the proposals, which he called constructive, put forward by U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean.

If the Russians really want this conference to succeed, "they should have been racking their brains to find a solution to obvious major point of difference," he said.

"Maybe I am wronging them. Perhaps they have been doing this. But it is small encouragement to the rest of us when they not only bring nothing forward themselves, but meet with contempt any suggestion put forward by others."

Dean said the Soviet refusal to begin disarmament by declaring total arms levels was a severe setback to the talks, which opened seven weeks ago.

Such declarations would be verified only by isolated and limited sample checks in the first stage of the American disarmament plan. They would form the mathematical basis for a 30 per cent arms reduction foreseen in the three-year first stage of a three-stage progression to total disarmament.

"If there will be a reluctance even to make a declaration concerning armaments either by numbers or by total destructive capacity," Dean said, "then our hopes for general and complete disarmament in a peaceful world will have suffered a severe setback."

Nehru Appeals Again For End To Bomb Tests

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru appealed again to the United States and the Soviet Union today to desist from nuclear testing.

He quoted from a letter written by U.S. Nobel Prize-winner Linus Pauling to the New York Times saying 20 million defective children may be expected as a result of genetic damage due to last year's Soviet atmospheric tests.

Testing also diminishes chances for disarmament, Nehru told Parliament.

Nehru also took a swipe at the United States in connection with charges of corruption in the Indian civil service.

He said India compared favorably with the United States in this respect. The United States, he said, "is very good at achieving a thing but from the point of view of integrity in public administration, it is not supposed to be exceedingly high."

The prime minister delivered a 70-minute address to Parliament in response to opposition criticism of a message delivered by retiring President Rajendra Prasad.

Among other points:

The Himalayan border dispute: "We do not want war with China but we have to prepare for all contingencies." India has strengthened its frontier outposts in the mountains.

The 14-year-old feud with Pakistan over Kashmir: "We've almost learned to live with the problem, hoping that sometime or other it will solve itself. It almost appears that the Pakistanis want to keep it alive for such reasons as they might have."

Johnston is charged with re-mortgaged property. His bond is $750.

Woman Cuts Out Section Of Curb

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—A woman bus driver, despite objections from the city, completed the job of cutting out a 10-foot section of curb with a hammer and chisel to form a driveway for her home.

"The city won't do it for me, so I have to do it myself," said Rachel Perkins Tuesday. "All they did was come out and mark off a section of the curb."

Public Works Director David Mann had objected, claiming the curb had to be cut out by a competent stonecutter.

But Mrs. Perkins, who had obtained a permit to put in a driveway, replied: "If I can drive a bus and build two houses, I can cut curbs. "Only last week I dug a 175-foot ditch to drain one of my homes in Angola."

Gremillion Gets Green Light To Settle Tidelands

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Jimmie Davis has given Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion the go-ahead on moves to bring about a speedy tidelands settlement.

Davis said Tuesday that anything the attorney general does to hasten an equitable settlement "will always have my full blessings."

The governor commented on Gremillion's request for new talks soon with U. S. Solicitor Gen. Archibald Cox to follow up a joint federal-state survey committee's report on recommendations for drawing a Louisiana coastline.

The governor spent about 20 minutes with his legislative budget study committee, which is readying recommendations for next year's state spending in advance of the May 14 opening of the 1962 legislature. Louisiana has a 173 million deficit this year.

James S. Reily, commissioner of administration and Davis' top fiscal advisor, presented the budget study committee his secret revenue estimates for the fiscal year beginning July 1 in a closed meeting. The estimates will serve as a base for the new spending program.

"We can't say at present just when we will be ready to act," Sen. William Cleveland of Crowley, chairman of the budget study committee commented afterward.

State Business Takes Healthy Leap

BATON ROUGE (AP) —Louisiana business in March jumped upward 10.1 per cent compared with March a year ago, business researchers said Tuesday.

This represents one of the strongest gains recorded in recent months, compared with the corresponding month a year earlier.

Researchers in Louisiana State University's college of commerce said in the state's general business index electric power consumption was up 28.7 per cent in March for the largest increase compared with March, 1961.

Crude petroleum production showed an increase of 15.3 per cent, petroleum manufacturing sales were up 13.6 per cent, freight carloadings 11.4 per cent and employment gained 1.2 per cent.

Declared Obsolete

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four World War II battleships are to be scrapped as obsolete and unfit, Navy Secretary Fred Korth said Tuesday. The battleships are the USS South Dakota, USS Indiana, USS Massachusetts and USS Alabama, all now in the mothball fleet.

Titov To Spend 3 Days In Capital

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet cosmonaut Gherman Titov arrives today for a three-day visit that will include a scientific talk on space flight, some small talk with Washington officials and a sightseeing tour guided by U.S. astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.

The 27-year-old Russian space conquerer and his wife Tamara, 24, will motor from Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland to the Soviet Embassy, where Titov will hold a news conference in late afternoon.

Officially, Titov is in this country to appear before scientists of the Committee for Space Research. He is a member of the Soviet delegation to the international conference being held here this week.

Before his U.S. visa expires next Wednesday, Titov will see a sizable chunk of the United States, attend a reception given by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and perhaps visit President Kennedy.

There's a chance Titov will call at the White House Thursday, the big day of his Washington visit, although there has been no official announcement.

Glenn, who made the first U.S. orbital flight Feb. 20, will take Titov sightseeing Thursday morning after both have registered for the science meeting.

They'll go wherever Titov wants, probably visiting the Capitol to see Congress in action, the Smithsonian Institution, Washington Monument, Lincoln Memorial and other tourist attractions.

Later, Titov will present a paper on space flight at the scientific gathering. Glenn will follow him on the platform. After another news conference Titov is to attend a reception for delegates sponsored by Johnson.

Titov will visit Baltimore and have a look at an industrial plant Friday. A likely choice is the Bethlehem Steel Co. at Sparrows Point.

Friday night there will be a press reception at the Soviet Embassy. Titov will tape a television interview to be broadcast Sunday.

Officials have made tentative plans to fly a planeload of the space science delegates to Cape Canaveral, Fla., Saturday, but Titov apparently will pass up the visit to the U.S. space center.

He is tentatively scheduled to leave Washington that day for a cross-country flight to Seattle, Wash., and a visit to the World's Fair. Titov is to visit San Francisco Sunday and Monday, then return to the East Coast to leave the United States.

Smithsonian Boss Irked By Use Of Wrong Name

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Suppose your name were George and people kept calling you Charlie.

You might overlook the mistake a few times, but after so long a time it would begin to get on your nerves. Right?

Consider then, Dr. Leonard Carmichael, the tall, distinguished head of the Smithsonian Institution. For years, he has had to listen to people call his domain by the wrong name.

For some reason or another, nearly everyone calls it the Smithsonian "Institute." Even those who should know better make the error.

I don't see how Carmichael has managed to maintain his equanimity. If I were in his shoes, I would long ago have cracked under the strain and attacked someone with a stuffed owl, or whatever museum piece was handy.

EXHIBITS CONTROL

Fortunately, however, Carmichael is made of sterner stuff, as witness the control he exhibited Tuesday during a double-header ceremony at the Smithsonian.

At one of the rites, Carmichael accepted for the museum's permanent collection a rare 13-volume set of the first edition of the Encyclopedia Americana, published in 1829.

The presentation was made by Vincent E. Sutliff, president of the Americana Corp., who, in keeping with the pattern, repeatedly alluded to the Smithsonian as "institute."

I watched Carmichael closely and he didn't even wince. He did, however, tactfully remind Sutliff that the Smithsonian's second name was "institution."

He said he used to have a secretary who "devoted her life to taking the 'toot' out of institution."

After this ceremony, Carmichael went immediately to another building to accept a plaque presented to the Smithsonian by a trade organization.

When I saw the name of the donating group, I caught my breath. It was the American Bicycle Institute. I figured its officials would mislabel the Smithsonian from force of habit.

Strangely enough, they all got the name right. It was a guest speaker, Dr. Carl A. Troester of the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, who made the slip.

Carmichael let it pass, but if this sort of thing keeps up I doubt that even riding a cicycle will keep the tension from getting him.

There is only one way I can see to bring the Smithsonian's correct name into common usage. That would be for Congress to pass a bill renaming it "institute."

JFK's Public Power Policy Revolutionary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of President Kennedy's new frontier programs — public power policy with a revolutionary slant — is simmering with signs of controversy.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall has boldly pioneered the new tack which has stirred both public and private utilities. They are not quite sure they are agreeably surprised and Congress seems unsure of its political meaning, if any.

Udall announced on Feb. 20 that he was abandoning previously-approved plans for an all-federal transmission system for the huge Colorado River basin storage project in favor of allowing private utilities to build certain key segments of the lines.

The secretary's decision should not have come as a complete surprise. Last December he had proposed a transmission pool system. This set forth a plan for power expansion on a shared basis between the federal government and private and public utilities.

He said it presented a practical means for the companies and the government to work together in maintainence of transmission systems, in solving other problems, and planning for future growth.

The Colorado transmission decision was the first example of coordination agreements which Udall apparently hopes to promote in other areas.

If his "togetherness" plan succeeds in the West, it is assumed it should work elsewhere. And he has been spending considerable time and effort to sell it to the private companies as advantageous to them. He has asked them for recommendations.

An organization of consumer-owned electric power systems in the five state complex to be served by the Colorado project has already submitted its recommendations.

The Colorado River Basin Consumers Power, Inc., comprises about 155 publicly and cooperatively-owned electric systems serving about 30 per cent of the small consumers in the five western states of Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona.

The contract recommendations of this group were endorsed by two other organizations — the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association (NRECA) and the American Public Power Association (APPA) — whose officials also had met with Udall in his recent sessions to sell his "togetherness" plan.

U.N. PROBERS REPORT

Death Of Envoy Remains Mystery

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A U.N. commission of inquiry announced today its inability to penetrate the mystery of Dag Hammarskjold's death.

In a report to the General Assembly, the five-nation body did not rule out any of the rumored causes of the plane crash—sabotage, attack by hostile aircraft, mechanical difficulties or human failure. It did say there was no evidence to back up any of these theories.

Hammarskjold died Sept. 18 when a chartered plane crashed near Ndola, Northern Rhodesia. The U.N. secretary-general was on a Congo peace mission.

The report said:

"The commission has carefully examined all possible causes of the accident. It has considered the possibility of sabotage or of attack and the material or human failures which could have resulted in an accident. It has found no evidence to support any of the particular theories that have been advanced nor has it been able to exclude the possible causes which it has considered."

The commission included representatives from Nepal, Sierra Leone, Sweden, Yugoslavia and Argentina. It began work in December and held hearings in Africa and at Geneva.

The group went into every rumor thoroughly, including reports that a bomb was placed on the plane, a mysterious 17th person was hidden aboard the plane, the altimeters were out of order, the plane caught fire and that a Katanga plane attacked it.

The commission said the plane had been unguarded before it left Leopoldville, providing an opportunity for sabotage, but it found no evidence sabotage took place.

It found no signs any hostile plane was in the vicinity or that the Hammarskjold aircraft had been fired upon. Contrary to reports, the commission said, there were no bullet holes in the fuselage and no signs that it had been struck by a rocket or that an explosion had taken place.

The commission said the altimeters were in perfect order and that all signs indicated that neither crew nor equipment had caused the crash.

"There is no convincing evidence," the report said, "that any witness heard or saw an explosion before the crash."

The commission criticized Rhodesian authorities in relation to search and rescue operations. It said "lack of initiative and diligence" on their part may have contributed to the difficulty of solving the mystery. Quicker action, it declared, might have resulted in the rescue of the one survivor, U.N. security officer Harold Julien, in time to save his life and provide some important answers.

Bobby Declares One-Way Rides 'Deplorable'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy says the segregationist sponsored one-way rides north for Louisiana Negroes "are a disgrace and I think it is most deplorable that they are taking place."

But he told a news conference at Roanoke, Va., Tuesday night that they involve no violation of federal law.

Meanwhile, George L. Singelmann, director of the Citizens Council of Greater New Orleans, was expected in Montgomery, Ala., to advise the Montgomery Citizens Council how to set up the free bus rides.

Singelmann directed a program in New Orleans, under which a number of dissatisfied Louisiana Negroes have been given the free one-way trips.

Some 20 Negroes, most members of one Baton Rouge, La., family, are headed for Los Angeles, where their train is scheduled to arrive late today.

The group also included a woman and three children headed for Oakland, Calif.

A Los Angeles official said the Negroes may get some temporary help but that the county has a one year's residence requirement before they could qualify for relief.

"No one can get off a bus or train and get on the relief rolls," said William Barr, superintendent of charities for Los Angeles County. "We give temporary assistance until we investigate each individual case.

"If they have legal residence in another state, we would give railroad or bus fare back to their legal residence if they have no funds."

Another group of six Negroes is due in New York by bus today.

One of the group, Leon Horne, who identified himself as a Methodist Evangelist, said of the council which sponsored his trip: "They could all drop dead for what I care."

Another Negro, Roy Hamilton, said he hated everything they stand for.

Before heading for Alabama, Singelmann went to Little Rock, Ark., to confer with officials of the Little Rock Capital Citizens Council about setting up rides from the Arkansas capital. He said: "I'm here for one thing, to see if you all want to send a bus to Hyannis Port." President Kennedy has a summer home in Hyannis Port, Mass.

In a prepared statement, Amis Guthridge, council president, said "the kickoff of the program will be an airlift to Hyannis Port, Mass., of the first two families, consisting of five each, who apply and are accepted. While the council is aware that John and Robert Kennedy are not at Hyannis Port at this time, brother Ted Kennedy is there."

To newsmen, Guthridge added, "we want to give these first class citizens not only a chance to improve their employment opportunities, but also their social associations. We are doing this through benevolence, humanitarism and brotherly love."

Interest also came from Shreveport, La., where Charles L. Barnett, an attorney and president of the Louisiana Citizens Council, said his group would soon start what he called "this Christian gesture to assist unfortunate Negroes in finding new homes in the North."

Meanwhile in Jersey City, N.J., Louis Boyd, who took his family of 10 on the first of the one-way free trips, took possession of a seven-room house near where he works for Medical Development, Inc.

A spokesman for the firm said Boyd rented the house with an option to buy. His rent was believed to be about 25 per cent of his salary, which is $100 a week.

Two other Negroes arrived in Chicago after a bus trip from New Orleans. The pair, Rezzie Moffett, 45, a porter, and Clifford Taylor, 25, a handyman, said they hoped to find a new life in the North. Both said they had been unemployed for long periods in New Orleans.

Moffett and Taylor are the only ones of 105 Negroes the Citizens Council claims to have sent to Chicago known to have arrived.

3 City School Bids Awarded Here Tuesday

Contracts were awarded yesterday by the Monroe City School Board for the renovation of Neville High School, the construction of a cafeteria at Barkdull-Faulk and the addition to the Lincoln Elementary School cafeteria.

The board failed to receive bids from general contractors on the Neville remodeling job, but engineer D. F. Burkhalter advised the board that a contract could be negotiated.

"The major work at Neville is the re-wiring," explained president J. H. Scogin.

"You are at liberty to negotiate," advised engineer D. F. Burkhalter.

Low bids on the Neville project were submitted by Cahn Electric, $94,655, for electrical work, plus $1,822 to air conditioning the offices at the school; and, Duncan & Dendinger, $26,444.31 for mechanical improvements of the school.

The board voted to accept the low bid of W. B. Sanders of West Monroe at $15,274 for the addition to the cafeteria at Lincoln Elementary School.

Sanders' bid was the lowest of seven.

Brown & Blazier of West Monroe submitted the lowest of 10 bids on the Barkdull-Faulk cafeteria—$26,897. The board voted to include two alternates—$994 for terrazio floor in the dining area and $425 for three sea fans.

All three projects are being financed as part of a capital improvement program.

While the board granted a request by Mrs. Lelia Stewart of the Georgia Tucker School for a sabbatical leave, a new district was accepted for the Clara Hall School.

"I am convinced that the people of S. 9th have room for complaint since they are just across from the school," commented W. E. Whetstone, a board member.

Residents on South Ninth had protested the previous district that designated students to attend Clara Hall and Minnie Ruffin.

As explained by Odom, the new district is as follows:

Running from the intersection of South First down the Winnsboro Road to an alley between South Sixth and South Seventh, up the Winnsboro Road to Beauregard Street, out Beauregard to an alley between South Ninth and South Tenth, north to Orange Street, down Orange to South Sixth, up South Sixth to Texas Avenue, down to the intersection of South First Street.

Man Gets Time For Forgery

Judge Jesse Heard Tuesday sentenced one man to the Ouachita parish jail for one year and fined a second $300 and costs. The action was taken in fourth district court.

Sentenced to one year in jail on each of two counts was Bobby Thornton, alias Bobby White, 19, Negro, 2613 May street, Monroe. He had pleaded guilty to the two forgery counts. Both terms are to run concurrently.

Given the $300 fine was Charles Bernard Williams, 17, Negro, 1112 Powell Avenue, Monroe, for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages. He was also fined $25 and costs for simple obstruction of a highway.

Millionaire Wins Fortune In Grid Pool

LONDON (AP)—Charles Dormer won 38,462 pounds—$107,693—on last weekend's football pools. It won't pay for a new house, a wardrobe for his wife, college for the kids, or any of the things publicized winners usually say they'll spend their money on.

Dormer, 46, is the millionaire owner of a fleet of trucks, a chain of garages, an oil distribution concession and a packaging business.

"You could say the football pools are my only hobby," he said. "They're a wonderful relaxation."

Dormer was born a Cockney, in London's East End. On his first job he was paid $2 a week for selling sacks of coal. It took him two years to save $100 to buy his first truck. Now he bets 20 pounds—$56—a week on the pools, trying to pick eight tie games. Last week because it was the last of the soccer season, he doubled his stake and hit the jackpot.

"I shall probably give some of it to charity," he said. "But not to those where it will be used for expenses. Old people and young children will benefit."

Winnings on the football pools are not taxable in Britain.

College Plans For Elephant Race Dealt Blow

NEW YORK (AP)—A small California college's plans for the world's first intercollegiate elephant race has received a jolting blow. A "white elephant" delivered the kick.

A spokesman for the United States Coast Guard Academy, the only entrant in the race—scheduled by Orange County State College—announced Tuesday that the academy would be unable to participate.

Lt. Arthur H. Bleich, public information officer of the institution at New London, Conn., released a statement in which Rear Adm. Stephen H. Evans, Academy Superintendent, explained:

"Our elephant, which was a white elephant all the time, was just disposed of at a rummage sale to an unknown mahout."

The Fullerton, Calif., college, which has only 2,000 students, no football team, no ivy and very little tradition, planned the race for May 11 as one way of achieving recognition.

The school's recently formed elephant racing club sent invitations to the university of Moscow, Oxford, Yale, Harvard, Smith College and the Red Fox Military Academy.

The Coast Guard Academy quickly accepted, saying it would airlift its entry to the race via Coast Guard plane. And it gave statistics, too: female, age 19, frisky but in top shape.

Academy officials entered her by name, which should have been some sort of a tipoff: "Whitey."

Lt. Bleich said he was passing through New York en route to Missouri Tuesday when newspapers across the country caught up with him asking more particulars.

"They kept me tied up all day," he said. "Things got to the point where we felt it would be best to come clean."

And now dear old Orange State needs to find another track-minded elephant—preferably, a gray one.

MY ANSWER

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: I am terribly mixed up, and I don't know what to do. I am an awful sinner and cannot seem to get Christ into my life. How does one completely blank out the past. Wicked thoughts are continually haunting me, and when I pray, I cannot get close to God. Although I spend three or four times a week sitting in church praying and reading my Bible, I do not always come out refreshed.

ANSWER: First, be sure that you have received Christ as your Lord and Saviour. The next time you open your Bible, begin to read in the Gospel of John and by the time you come to verse twelve, you will see that "As many as received Him to them gave he power to become the children of God, even to them that believe on His name." You can receive Christ as an act of faith. Don't look for feelings because feelings will lead you astray.

The moment you receive Christ, the Holy Spirit comes to live in your heart. Paul said that we are to be filled with the Spirit, and the Spirit-filled life is God's norm for every child of His. A life that is filled with the Holy Spirit is the only normal life. The Holy Spirit then produces the fruit of the Spirit. The first three fruits are love, joy and peace. Thus the Christian life becomes Christ living through you. Apparently, this is the kind of life you desperately want. Jesus said, "if any man thirst, let him come unto me and drink."

DEFENSE COST RISES

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Department said Tuesday that U.S. military spending in March totaled $4.3 billion, one of the largest monthly totals since the Korean War.

Military expenditures for the nine months ending March 31 were $34.9 billion.

Acquitted Of Murder Charges

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Druey E. Youngblood, 35, of Shreveport, has been acquitted by a district court jury in a re-trial of murder charges in the May 11, 1957, shooting of Clyde Cathey, 29, Shreveport.

Jess Jefferies, who like Youngblood had been sentenced to life imprisonment, was previously acquitted on an appeal.

A third person charged in the case, Phelbert Powers, didn't appeal and is serving life in the state penitentiary.

The three were convicted in December, 1957.

Those Late Shows

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) —Trusty prisoners in the county jail were sent to bed early Tuesday night without their usual entertainment.

Sheriff James W. Webster said he confiscated the prisoners' television set because they were ignoring the lights out curfew to watch late movies.

SALESMEN WANTED!
Experience Unnecessary
DUE TO THE rapid growth and expansion of our organization we must hire another salesman!
THE MAN we are looking for must have a pleasing personality, he must be neat, he must be at least 24 years of age, he should have a good education, (Of course, we realize that education isn't everything but of our present sales force of 7 men, 3 are college graduates, 2 have 3 years of college, 1 man has 2 years of college and the other has 1 year of college, so you can see why we feel that we have an above average sales force.), but most of all, he must be ambitious—he wants to get started right now on a bigger job and a bigger paycheck.
EVEN if he's had no experience at all in the automotive sales field, we will be glad to train him and he will make good money while he's in training!
WE FEEL that our offer is as good if not better than any other type of sales work! Our compensation plan is one of the best to be found anywhere and working conditions are excellent
IF YOU think that you can qualify for this job, stop in today and ask for Mr. Tubbs at Northeast Motors N. 3rd & Breard

SALESMEN, want a new line? 20 per cent commission on all sales. Protected territory. 322-1534

Fallout Effects On Genes Worrisome Question

EDITOR'S NOTE — Scientists believe the increase in radiation from nuclear test fallout contribute to human genetic changes. But how much, or how harmfully? A million mice have been studied in the quest for clues, and despite some significant findings the subject is still hedged with assumptions. This is the second of three articles on fallout.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — Much of human destiny is governed by genes, the tiny miraculous agents of heredity.

Genes determine inherited characteristics, from eye color to intelligence, susceptibility to some diseases, the potential for long life.

What effects nuclear fallout has on genes is one of the worrisome questions surrounding atomic tests. Recent scientific findings, including the story gathered from one million mice here, are putting the answer in better focus.

It's long been known that genes mutate or change spontaneously. Mishaps occur when new genes are assembled in body cells. Heat and chemicals can cause mutations. So can radiation. Mutations in genes are generally considered to be harmful, only occasionally resulting in an improvement in evolution.

Scientists assume background radiation causes some spontaneous mutations. Various experts think it causes from one-fourth to 1-40th of all spontaneous mutations.

Fallout has added a little bit to natural radiation, so they assume fallout must also be contributing to human genetic changes.

Note the word "assume."

For the experts' concern stems largely from radiation studies with fruitflies, mice, and other animals, plus some observations of humans. Hefty exposures to X rays produce mutations. The bitter the dose, the more mutations.

So, playing it cautiously, geneticists assume any amount of radiation affects some genes, even the small amount from natural radiation, and the 5 per cent or so increase over that from fallout.

They assume there is no threshold, no amount so low it wouldn't affect some genes, sometime. They've also suspected that one hit on a gene from radiation could act to mutate that gene.

They formerly believed it didn't matter whether a given dosage of radiation was received all at once, or spread over a long period of time—the mutation effect would be the same.

Some of these ideas are altered by the findings of Dr. William L. Russell, his wife Dr. Liane B. Russell and coworkers at the Oak Ridge National Laboratory, operated for the Atomic Energy Commission by Union Carbide Corp.

They work with a colony of about 100,000 mice—and a million have served in the genetic studies since 1950.

Dr. Russell exposes some mice to different rates of radiation dosage. Gamma rays, like X rays but more penetrating, from radioactive cesium bathe the mice as they live for days or weeks in a special room.

The irradiated mice then are mated with others, not exposed to radiation, and their off-spring are carefully observed. They use strains of mice in which certain changes in hair color, ear size or other characteristics will come to the fore if the radiation has affected genes of the exposed mice.

The rate at which radiation is given is found to be highly important.

A dose of 600 roentgens given in a short time produces significantly more mutations than the same dose given over weeks or months of time.

In male mice, the spreading out produces only one-quarter of the mutations from the same dosage in a short time.

Background radiation is also spread out or chronic. For the average person it amounts to only one-tenth of a roentgen per year.

It is simply not possible to expose mice at such infinitesmal rates and see any effects within their short lifespans.

So Dr. Russell has exposed mice to radiation rates of 90 roentgens per minute, about 9 per minute, 8-10ths per minute, 9-1000ths per minute, and even 1-1,000ths per minute. Even at that lowest rate, this amounts to almost 9 roentgens per week, and would be more than 400 in a year.

Exposure to about 500 roentgens, over the entire body in a very short time would kill half the humans exposed.

Dr. Russell finds even the lowest dosage rate produces a few genetic changes out of hundreds of mice.

The slow rate of chronic exposure is far less productive of genetic changes than the high rate of 90 roentgens per minute exposure.

But there's no sharp drop in effects between 8-10ths per minutes and the lowest rate—1-1,000ths per minute.

So it cannot be said on this basis that there is no dose so low it wouldn't affect some genes. In short, there is no evidence that there is any threshold below which effects would not occur.

He does find evidence the sex cells of male mice which produce sperm—which carry the male contribution of genes for the next generation—can resist radiation induction of mutation to some degree. They show some ability to recover from low-rate chronic doses.

He thinks the female sex cells or eggs have much greater recovery ability. The cell can contribute some protection or recovery factor to the genes within the cell. Some of the initial radiation damage in the cell is prevented from going all the way to produce mutation.

This challenges the old idea that one hit necessarily mutates a gene, and that the cell has no influence over this process.

What happens to mouse genes may also happen to human genes.

These and other observations lead most geneticists to believe fallout radiation may have some real effect on human heredity, but a very minor effect compared with other causes of genetic mutations.

But the nature of the evidence so far permits the estimates or guesses ranging from almost no human effects, to guesses of big numbers over tens to hundreds of years.

Rep. Hoover In Dither Over State Agency

By JACK OWENS

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Rep. Winston Hoover, Livingston Parish, is in a dither over the Little Hoover Commission.

"I wish they would change the name of it," he said, "if they could figure out just exactly what it is — and put it into words."

It's hard to explain to some of his constituents, Hoover said, that he has nothing to do with the Little Hoover Commission —with its formation and its work.

Although some committees and commissions set up to make studies or recommend legislation carry the names of the persons who started the idea, the name Little Hoover Commission has no reference to Rep. Hoover.

Its real name is the Louisiana Reorganizational Study Commission. It is headed by Rep. Robert Munson of Rapides Parish.

Newsmen and legislators dubbed it the Little Hoover Commission because it is similar to one set up under former President Herbert Hoover to study ways to streamline the federal government and make it more economical.

Louisiana's Little Hoover Commission offered several bills in the 1961 fiscal legislature and gained approval of some. It has offered more than 40 bills to the 1962 legislature, some of which are controversial.

The most controversial apparently is one to abolish the office of the state comptroller, a constitutional post in Louisiana government nearly 100 years.

Rep. Munson admitted in a recent report the commission has barely scratched the surface. But its recommendations may save the state millions.

But for Rep. Hoover the situation is confusion where his own constituents are concerned.
